MARION MAN BATTLES HOUSE LOOTER IN DARK

THIEF MAKES ESCAPE

Awakened from sleep by the ... of a burglar ransacking ... Merle Peacock, 20, of 639 ... Peacock engaged the intruder ... in battle in the dining room last night, ... out second best in the ...

The unusual battle, rivaling movie thriller burglar scenes in the brief period the tilt lasted, occurred shortly after 9 o'clock ...

Had Been Asleep

Peacock, a Marion Steam Shovel Co employe, said he had not been feeling well and about 9 o'clock laid down on a davenport in the front room of the downstairs and fell asleep. The house was in darkness except for a tiny radio light that was barely noticeable.

He said he had been in the basement a short time before and had checked the doors to make sure they were locked as he climbed the stairs. However, he said in turning the lock in the side door of the house he must have unlocked the door.

"I stretched out in the living room and must have been sound asleep when I heard a metallic click," Peacock said. "It was the drawer pull on the buffet in the dining room—it makes a familiar sound.

"A thousand things went through my mind as to what would be the best thing to do. I couldn't leave the house because our son (10-months-old James Kenneth) was upstairs, so I gave up the thought of going out the front door to call police.

"There didn't seem to be anything else to do, so I tackled him."

Peacock said the man turned around as he moved toward him and that he (Peacock) landed a sound blow on the man's jaw, sending him reeling against a dining room chair which made a sizeable impression in the wall. However, the intruder, who Peacock said was tall and of heavier build, returned the attack viciously.

Knocked Against Table

As the burglar regained his feet, he lunged at Peacock, seized him by the shirt just under his chin and struck a stunning blow on Peacock's jaw. Several more blows were exchanged and then the intruder struck hard to Peacock's face. The blow, Peacock said, "knocked me back against the table. Either that blow or striking my head on the table put me out. The last thing I remember was hearing the door slam as he went out and then things went black."

About 9:30 Peacock said he regained consciousness, went to the Kenneth F Sweney home nearby and asked him to call police.

A checkup indicated the intruder had just opened one drawer in the buffet and was just beginning to ransack the house when Peacock attacked him.

Mrs. Peacock was away from the house at the time. She said she had debated whether to leave because her husband was not feeling well, but said he had urged her not to remain at home because of that.

There were no words spoken either by Peacock or the intruder. Peacock said he could not give any description of the man because of the darkness.

U. S. Accepts Invitation To 9-Power Peace Talk

U. S. PEACE ENVOY

NORMAN H. DAVIS

Davis To Head Delegation Named by Hull To Sail Next Week.

3 OTHERS INCLUDED

Will Attempt To Mediate Oriental Conflict Before Using Other Means.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—The United States formally accepted today an invitation to participate in the nine-power treaty conference over the far eastern crisis at Brussels on Oct. 30 and designated Norman H. Davis to head this government's delegation.

Secretary Hull, in announcing the acceptance a few minutes after the Belgian ambassador had delivered the formal invitation, told his press conference the delegation probably will sail the middle of next week. Other members of the American delegation were announced by Hull as follows:

Dr Stanley Hornbeck, special political advisor to the secretary of state on far eastern affairs.

Two Advisors Named

J. Pierrepont Moffet, chief of the state department's European division.

Robert T. Pell, an attache of the European division, and Charles E Bohlen also attached to the European division.

Hornbeck and Moffet will act as advisors to Davis in the conference proceedings. Pell will accompany the delegation as press officer and Bohlen will act as secretary.

The general expectation was that the delegation will sail from New York on the United States liner Washington next Wednesday.

"Peace-by-agreement" between China and Japan stood out today as the primary objective of the United States.

This policy, outlined yesterday by President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., will form the basis of instructions to the American delegation.

The President indicated plainly the United States intends to propose that the conference attempt to mediate the Sino-Japanese conflict by seeking an agreement between them to end hostilities and to strive for a peaceable adjustment of their difficulties.

Seek Accord First

Presumably, such a move will have the support of other powers at the conference. In suggesting the parley, the League of Nations recommended that the nine-power treaty signatories seek a solution of the crisis "by agreement" before "examining other possibilities."

How the two belligerents—and especially Japan—will regard such action by the conference, however, was a subject of wide speculation.

The Japanese government is represented unofficially as being unwilling to countenance any outside "interference" in the conflict. There even is doubt whether Tokyo will participate in the conference.

China will send representatives, but informed observers say it is not likely to approve any substantial concessions to Japan as the price of a possible conciliatory settlement.

These factors prompted much conjecture here on what further steps the United States and the other conference members might be expected to sponsor should mediation efforts fail. The President, declining to venture any prediction, said significantly that it was sheer guesswork for anyone to try to say now what America's policy would be in the future.

In his radio speech Tuesday, however, he made known the government's desire to cooperate with both China and Japan in reaching a satisfactory solution. This was interpreted in some quarters as an indirect overture to Japan to join in the parley.

The final step toward convoking the conference was taken meanwhile, by the Belgian government.

Invitations Sent Out by Belgians

BRUSSELS, Oct. 16—Belgian diplomats in capitals of interested countries throughout the world today delivered invitations to signatories and adherents of the nine-power treaty for a conference here Oct. 30 to attempt mediation of the Sino-Japanese war.

They pointed out, however, that the date could be changed.

CLUES SOUGHT FROM WIDMER

Capture in Philadelphia Spurs Hunt for Companions Who Fled from Cleveland.

G-MEN HELP COMB CITY

Black of Ohio Police To Question Prisoner Regarding Slaying of Conn.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16—The federal bureau of investigation and the state of Ohio sought today from James Widmer, fugitive slayer, the whereabouts of his two desperate companions and the story behind the slaying of an Ohio highway patrolman.

The search for Charles and Frank Bird, other members of the "Bird gang," sent detectives and federal agents curry-combing the city.

The trio escaped together last month from the Cuyahoga county jail at Cleveland, O., after cowing seven deputy sheriffs, stealing a judge's automobile and killing a woman whom they ran down in their mad flight.

To Be Quizzed by Black

Detectives said they expected Col. Lynn Black, Ohio highway patrol superintendent, from Cleveland today to question Widmer about the slaying in gangland fashion of Ohio Highway Patrolman George Conn, near Freeport, O., several days after the trio escaped prison.

Widmer, captured yesterday without any resistance by two motorcycle policemen checking for stolen automobiles, will be arraigned before U. S commissioner William Wecker later today on charges of being a fugitive from justice.

His capture was announced by the Cleveland office of the federal bureau of investigation. Robert G. Herndon, in charge of the

MT. VICTORY CRASH KILLS BLUFFTON MAN

Pet Dog Dies with Master as Autos Sideswipe on Highway.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Oct. 16—Francis X. Mathews, 52, of Bluffton was killed and two Swanton, O., residents injured in a collision of automobiles one mile north of Mt. Victory on route 31 last night at 9:15.

Mathew's pet dog died in the crash with him. He and the pet were the only occupants of his car.

Authorities investigating the crash said Mathews, driving north and entering a curve that swung to the right, apparently failed to make the curve and sideswiped an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jauquot of Swanton. Jauquot and his wife were bruised but did not suffer serious injuries. They were taken to Columbus where they were going to visit friends.

Mathews, manager of the Oakland Grill at Findlay, died of a skull fracture. He was a nephew of Curran Flanagan, publisher of the Kenton Daily Democrat.

A moment after the crash an automobile Jauquot was attempting to flag crashed into the back of his car. Mrs. Jauquot, getting out of the car, was thrown to the ground and injured more painfully than she had been in the first collision. The driver did not stop, Jauquot said, reporting the license number to authorities.

A physician notified Mathews' widow of the mishap. They had been married only six months. The body was taken to the Fraber & Sherman funeral home in Mt. Victory and was to be taken to Bluffton today.

STAGE SET FOR KICK-OFF IN Y CAMPAIGN MONDAY

Dinner at Night Will Open Annual Drive for $12,450; Workers To Take Field Tuesday.

The stage was set today for the kick-off dinner Monday night that will launch the general solicitation phase of the annual Y. M. C. A. fund campaign. The goal is $12,450.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, nearly all team captains reported the lists of workers who will assist them, and approximately half of the cards bearing names of prospective contributors were distributed. The remainder will be given out at the kick-off dinner.

In the meantime, Charles H. Isaly and the group of men helping him in the advance special gifts committee reported they hope to have most of their prospects seen by Tuesday night at 6 when the first progress report meeting will be held at the Y.

Short talks will be given Monday night by Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young, president of the Y. M. C. A., John H. Clark, Marion attorney and E. N. Hale, Y secretary.

Workers Start Tuesday

Workers in the general division of the campaign are scheduled to start out Tuesday morning, make reports of their progress on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights next week and on Monday and Tuesday nights of the following week, ending the drive on Tuesday, Oct. 26.

The special gifts committee, which began its work several days ago, will remain on the job throughout the campaign although much of that group's work is completed. Members assisting Chairman Isaly in this branch of the campaign are E. Paul Bachman, H. J. Grigsby, Gene Hill, E. L. Herbolsheimer, Carl E. Danner, A. W. Kette, M. L. McDaniel, Ed Pool, Karl Schell, E. J. Schoenlaub, J. C. Woods, E. G. Siefert, John J. Stafford, Judge Young, A. A. Van Atta, Kenneth Z. Fields and George Alber.

SCHOOL PROGRAM LEADER OPTIMISTIC

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16 — A rosy picture of the state school foundation program's future financial condition was laid down today before a commission seeking data on which to base a permanent taxation system.

William M. Reynolds, tax commission research department attorney, predicted that a present $12,000,000 deficit would be wiped out by the end of 1939. Liquidation of outstanding notes can be made by use of a $5,900,000 surplus from anticipated revenues over biennium appropriations, he said.

HAHN TRIAL REVEALS SHE FORETOLD DEATH

Witness Says Defendant Told Her Victim "Isn't Coming Back" from Hospital.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16—Anna Marie Hahn returned to the courtroom stolid and emotionless today with the testimony ringing in her ears that she stated Jacob Wagner, for whose death she is on trial for her life, "would not return" from the hospital.

Mrs. Ida Martin, who formerly lived in the tenement home where Wagner, 78, resided, told the jury last night:

"Mrs. Hahn came to my door and said 'I sent the old man to the hospital, you know he is my uncle.'

"I said that I didn't know Wagner was sick and she answered 'yes, he has been sick for two or three days. You know he fell and knocked a hole in his head. You know, he isn't coming back and there's lots of things in his room which you could use and I will give you.'

"Do you mean to say he is not coming back from the hospital?" Mrs. Martin said she asked her.

"She came back the morning that Wagner was buried," Mrs. Martin asserted. "I heard some one in the room and knocked and offered to help her but there was a small man there with a little mustache helping her."

Dr. James A. Clift followed her on the stand in the night session

WAR BABES GIVEN BIRTH AMID LULLABY OF BOMBS

700 Born Daily in Shanghai To Become "Wolf Waifs" of Darkened Alleys, Destitute, Starving.

BY JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Correspondent

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16—The population of war-ravaged and terror-stricken Shanghai is increasing by an average of 700 births a day, according to figures issued today.

With demolition bombs and howitzer shells supplying their first cradle songs, most of these war-waifs are born in Shanghai's alleyways, gutters and cellars.

Cradled in mud and dressed in newspapers, they present a truly pitiable spectacle. Backyard cats and barnyard dogs fare more fortunately in giving birth to their young than do the fear-crazed, famished Chinese mothers who have been driven from their wretched mud hovels and straw huts by Japanese bombs and now are ravaged by cholera, beriberi and other diseases.

Some of them, with their starving, shivering broods, make their homes on shelves in empty stores, sleep in coffins or live in the ruins of blasted buildings.

Every day I have seen pitiable processions of these homeless, destitute war-mothers bearing newborn infants, mere fragments of

EXPLOSION KILLS 33 MINERS IN ALABAMA

Double Killing Admitted by Maine School Youth

Doctor and Wife Hammered to Death, Then Driven to New Jersey Where Police Make Discovery.

By The Associated Press

NORTH ARLINGTON, N. J., Oct. 16—The bodies of an elderly physician and his wife, beaten to death with a hammer in Maine by a high school boy, Prosecutor J. J. Breslin said, and then driven leisurely through the New England states to New Jersey were found today in a parked automobile.

The high school boy, Paul Dwyer, 18, of South Paris, Me., who had stopped the machine with its gruesome cargo to get some sleep, confessed the double slaying, Bergen County Prosecutor John J. Breslin announced. "Double murder," he termed the case.

The victims were identified by police as Dr. John G. Littlefield, 65, and his wife, Lydia, 64, both of South Paris, Me. The physicians body was stuffed into a trunk on the back of the car. His frail wife was crammed under the rear seat.

Found by Chance

It was only by chance that police stumbled upon the slayings. The youth, travel weary, was asleep at the wheel of the car, which he had parked in a vacant lot. Two patrolmen noticed him, becoming suspicious, they awakened him and took him to headquarters for routine questioning about a sum of money in his possession. Another officer meanwhile started examining the car and the slayings were discovered.

Chief of Police George Shippee said young Dwyer, a junior in the South Paris high school, talked readily. When the finding of Mrs Littlefield's body was reported to headquarters, Shippee said, the youth directed them to look in the trunk where the physician's body was discovered. The place the car was parked is not far from Newark and only several miles from Jersey City and New York.

In Dwyer's own home, where the doctor had gone to examine him, the youth choked Dr. Littlefield and then beat him to death last Wednesday after the latter "made a crack about my girl," Shippee quoted Dwyer as saying.

Body Put in Trunk

Cramming the physician's body into a trunk, Shippee said the boy placed it in Dr. Littlefield's car and drove to his home. The chief said Dwyer then told him he induced Mrs Littlefield to gather all the money she had and drive with him to Lisbon, where he told the woman her husband had fled "after killing two people."

Unknown to the gray-haired Mrs. Littlefield, her husband's body was in the very car in which they "searched" for him fruitlessly two days in Boston and Concord, N. H.

Then, as they headed back toward home yesterday, Mrs Littlefield became suspicious and threatened to call a policeman at Graham, a community south of Portland, Me., the chief said.

"Oh, no you won't," Shippee quoted Dwyer as saying.

The youth thereupon choked and beat the woman to death with the same hammer he used to kill her husband, the police chief said.

The youth was brought in to police headquarters for questioning about $197 police said he had in his pockets. Meanwhile, Shippee said, Patrolman Norman Turner went out to examine the car and rushed back to the police station with the declaration that a woman's body was under the rear seat.

At this point, Shippee said, the youth suggested they look in a trunk in the tonneau of the car. There they found the body of the physician, the chief said.

Shippee said the morbid confession continued as follows. Dwyer placed the doctor's body in the trunk, put it in the car, drove to the doctor's house, and told Mrs. Littlefield:

"The doctor has just killed two people and is on his way to Boston. He said to get all the money you have and meet him at the railroad station."

JAPAN CITES USE OF POISON GAS BY FOE

Displays Shell Containing Fumes Assertedly Taken from Chinese Troops.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16—Japanese authorities staged a dramatic demonstration today of alleged Chinese use of poison gas.

Fifteen foreign correspondents were assembled in the office of the Japanese consulate general to receive an announcement which they had been told would be so momentous it had to be made on Japanese territory.

They were shown a shell which emitted evil smelling fumes which the Japanese asserted was phosgene smoke. Lieutenant Col. Hajime Tani, of the Japanese chemical corps declared the shell contained sufficient poisonous gas to kill the entire roomful.

An official spokesman stated that six shells with unusual red markings were fired Oct. 14 when a Japanese patrol surprised the crew of a Chinese trench mortar on the Tapingkiang-Luohong sector, north of Shanghai.

Chemical and medical tests, the Japanese declared, definitely proved that the shells contained sufficient poison gas to cause asphyxiation under favorable conditions.

The curl of fumes arising from the quantity left in the exhibit, however, was enough to cause only a slight headache.

A spokesman said gas mask precautions saved the Japanese from casualties.

Questioned whether neutral experts participated in the tests of the alleged Chinese shell, he replied that he considered the Japanese charge sufficient.

A Chinese spokesman declared renewed attempts by the Japanese army today to smash Chinese lines at Tazang, 10 miles north of Shanghai, were repulsed.

C.I.O. AND A.F.L. TO TALK PEACE

Federation Accepts Rival's Proposal for Conference in Washington Oct. 25.

FOLLOWS WIRE EXCHANGE

No Stipulations To Be Attached to Meeting Aimed at Labor Unity.

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Oct. 16—The American Federation of Labor accepted today the C. I. O.'s proposal for a peace conference Oct. 25 at Washington, D. C.

The federation's executive council addressed the following telegram to Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. peace committee:

"The committee of the American Federation of Labor composed of Vice Presidents Harrison, Woll, and Bugniazet will meet your committee Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., Oct. 25, 10 a. m."

William Green, A. F. L. president, said he regarded the C. I. O.'s proposal as "a full and complete acceptance of the proposition made by the A. F. L. during the past two years."

Groups Named Long Ago

When the federation suspended 10 rebel C. I. O. unions, the executive council named a special committee headed by George Harrison, president of the railway clerks, to try to make peace.

G. M. Bugniazet, secretary of the electrical workers, was substituted for Felix Knight, president of the railway firemen, because Knight cannot be in Washington Oct. 25.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the photo engravers union, is the third member.

Green emphasized that the peace conference would be held "without conditions or stipulations." The A. F. L. had turned down two C. I. O. proposals this week because federation leaders interpreted them to mean that the A. F. L. should go into the conference recognizing the C. I. O. had been right in labor's big civil war.

Their Stand Changed

Murray's proposal today, calling for a conference "with or without conditions," changed their position.

Philip Murray, chairman of a special committee named to arrange the meeting and confer with federation representatives, sent this telegram today to Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the federation, here:

Wants No Quibbling

"Our committee will meet your committee (Willard hotel) Washington, Oct. 25 with or without commitments as you prefer.

"If you decide to cease quib-

TRAGEDY LAID TO GAS POCKET

34 on Duty When Blast Tears Out Elbow; Debris Hampers Rescue Work.

ONLY ONE OUT ALIVE

Condition Critical as Result of Burns; Unable To Tell How Mishap Occurred.

By The Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 16—A shattered explosion deep in a shaft of the Mulga coal mine 10 miles west of here killed 33 men—virtually the entire shift at work—early today.

The blast, blamed by Fire Marshal Sam Williams on coal gas, tore an elbow in the Woodward Iron works about 2 a. m. when a shift of 34 men was on duty in the affected section. Fallen rock debris hampered rescue workers.

A single victim, Ivan Fox, who was working near the elbow crumbled by the explosion, was brought out alive. He was seriously burned and Marshal Williams said he was the only person working near the blast "who did not lose his life."

Survivor Critical

Fox was in critical condition at a Bessemer, Ala., hospital and could not be questioned about the explosion."

R. M. Marshall, Woodward vice president, said bodies of the victims were located about four miles from the shaft mouth by the rescue crews, which sent back word that many were buried in fallen rock and coal. The victims were about equally divided between Negroes and whites, he said.

The mine, he added, normally employs about 500 men. Only one wing was damaged. This was near the shaft's deepest extremity, a fact which kept the death list from mounting to staggering proportions, it was said.

First of the bodies were trundled out of the shaft on coal cars five hours after the explosion. More than 500 persons, friends and relatives and sightseers, looked on.

Gas Impedes Workers

The work of bringing the bodies from the mine was handicapped by presence of coal gas, and by lack of oxygen. A crew from the United States bureau of mines, equipped with masks, led the rescue workers to the scene of the tragedy.

Coal from Mulga is used in the blast furnaces of the Woodward Co., a principal merchant iron producer in the southeast.

State highway patrolmen were forced to shoulder a path through the throng for 12 ambulances, summoned from Birmingham and Bessemer.

A cold wind swept the tipple and the crowd huddled together, stolidly awaiting every fragment of news from the smoking shaft.

Seeks Blast Cause

W. Hillhouse, chief state mine inspector, entered the shaft at 3 a. m. to attempt to determine the cause of the blast, first in several years in a major Alabama shaft.

He said the bodies were found approximately four miles from the surface, allowing for both vertical and horizontal distances necessary to reach the spot.

Mulga is a shaft mine, and its coal is used principally in the Woodward blast furnaces, which convert ore into pig iron.

E. D. Doge, superintendent of the mine, led an emergency crew to the spot where the bodies were found, and directed the work of bringing them to the surface.

No effort was made at immediate identification.

Harding Loses, 7 to 6, In First Defeat of Season

FINDLAY VICTORIOUS BY MARGIN OF KICK AFTER TOUCHDOWN

2,500 Persons See Marion's Try for Extra Point Fail Due to Fumble.

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER

Harding High's record of being undefeated was abruptly broken at five games last night when the fighting Findlay Trojans, by the margin of a successful kick from placement, defeated the Presidents 7 to 6 before an estimated 2,500 spectators, the largest home crowd of the season. It was Findlay's eighth straight victory in grid meetings between the two schools.

Both touchdowns came in the final quarter. Quarterback Van Voorhis lead the attack that brought the visitors' score after a 56-yard march. He crossed the goal line standing up on an 18-yard dash around Harding's right end. Right End Hayes booted the extra point to give Findlay a 7 to 0 lead with but six minutes remaining in the game.

Score in Last 3 Minutes

Marion shoved over its touchdown in the last three minutes of play. Taking the ball on the Findlay 42-yard line, the Presidents annexed three first downs on scrimmage plays and Fullback Zeisler scored on a 14-yard run through his own left tackle. A line play from a fake kick formation failed as Harding fumbled on the try for the extra point that would have tied the score.

The Presidents chalked up 10 first downs to seven for the Trojans, and rolled up 172 yards from scrimmage while the invaders gained 120. Harding's game was noticeably weaker than the performance against Lima South last week and the alert Blue and Gold warriors constantly threatened the harassed Cramermen.

Except for the brilliant line play of Glen "Pud" Wintermute, Charles Baker and Paul Fick, and the performance of the backfield men, Howard Dichl and diminutive Joseph Caprino, Harding's game was ordinary. Baker, Fick and Wintermute slashed through the opposing forward wall to consistently nail the ball-carrier for little or no gain.

Wintermute Smashes Line

Wintermute, the lightest member of the team, displayed unusual ability as he repeatedly halted Trojan offensive drives. Pud suffered an injury to his bad right knee that took him from the game in the final quarter. Baker, who hits the scales at 155, played the same heads-up game that he showed a week ago against Lima South.

Marion's backfield that last week clicked to precision appeared to have a balance wheel or main spring missing and except for a few brief moments, looked like the squad that muffed the opener against Mt. Gilead. Howard Dichl, who has been on the sidelines since he was injured in the Delaware Wilis game, turned in a creditable performance as did little Joe Caprino.

The Presidents' attempts at razzle-dazzle sounded a sour note as plays that looked good for at least short gains were stopped either on or behind the line of scrimmage. Six Harding passes were incomplete while the opposition made only three aerial attempts, two going for gains of 23 yards and the third being intercepted. Penalties were conspicuous by their absence, Harding was charged with being offside while the Trojans were penalized four times for offside and once for having the backfield in motion.

While alert Marion followers credited the defeat to apparent listlessness, Trojans fans were paying due credit to their hard-plunging backfield men, Van Voorhis and Van Fleet. Quarterback Van Voorhis ripped off numerous long gains and picked up most of the ground that put the ball in position for his 18-yard touchdown run. Van Fleet likewise was a consistent ground-gainer for Findlay.

The game was the final non-conference contest for the Presidents, who next week will inaugurate the North Central Ohio conference season with a Friday night game at Ashland. Last night Ashland's team defeated Wooster by a 7 to 6 score and the Hill-toppers will be out to upset Harding's league hopes next week. Harding's next home appearance will be Nov. 13 with the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets.

The line-ups follow:

BRIGGS

IT is now the custom for nearly every sports writer, whether he's a grid expert or not, to make a list of football predictions each week-end.

Everybody's doing it, and these gluttons for punishment not only attempt to foretell the winners of these see-saw scraps, they often go so far as to predict the scores and to prophesy tie games!

Before you know it, these boys will be writing a play-by-play story of each game before it comes off. The only thing then will be to make the gridders remember their parts and play the game as it is written.

All kidding aside, it is getting tougher and tougher to predict football winners with the sectional balance of power more evenly divided than ever before. Gone are the days of all-conquering football teams such as the Rockne elevens. Upsets are getting so common that they aren't upsets any more. It's getting so you can do just as well picking your selections out of a hat as by studying football form charts.

The lads who run those football pools certainly have a net racket. You can figure out what chance you have of hitting the right combination on some 15 or 20 gridiron dog-fights!

MARION RESERVES SCORE 7-0 WIN IN PRELIMINARY GAME

Four Consecutive Plays Net Junior Varsity 60 Yards: Walters Scores.

Advancing 60 yards on four consecutive plays, Harding High's Junior Presidents chased over a touchdown in the closing minutes of the final quarter to defeat the Findlay Reserves, 7 to 0, in a preliminary to the Marion-Findlay varsity football game at Harding stadium last night.

The Jayvees began their touchdown drive after receiving a Findlay punt on the Marion 40-yard line. Joe Benedict heaved a pass to Bill Walters that went for a 20-yard gain. Left Halfback Reichardt made a 10-yard sweep around the end and Fullback Shaw hit the center of the line for another first down to put the ball deep in scoring territory.

From the Findlay 18-yard marker, Benedict tossed the oval to Walters, who received over the goal line for the touchdown. The Junior Presidents added the extra point when Reichardt's kick from placement sailed directly between the uprights. Findlay received after the score but was able to run only a few line plays before the game-ending gun sounded.

Twenty Harding players saw action in the contest, which was the second victory in three starts for the reserve club. The team, composed largely of Harding sophomores, previously scored a 13 to 0 win over the Bucyrus second team and were defeated, 2 to 0, by Richwood.

The line-ups follow:

| Marion—7 | | Findlay—0 |
|---|---|---|
| McGinnis | LE | Woolford |
| Dillinger | LT | Mays |
| Zeisler | LG | Julian |
| Bosch | C | Van Cutten |
| Weber | RG | Naus |
| Klein | RT | Brondes |
| Smith | RE | Larkin |
| Howard | QB | Wilson |
| Reichardt | LH | McCleary |
| Scott | RH | Newcomer |
| Shaw | FB | D. Ebert |
| Marion | 0 0 0 7—7 | |
| Findlay | 0 0 0 0—0 | |

Substitutions—Marion: Walters, Benedict, Turner, France, Childs, Brashares, Keller, Hudson; Findlay—Abbatt, Concannon, Palmer.

Touchdown—Walters. Point after touchdown — Reichardt's (placement).

Officials—Murphy, Bush, Caprino.

New Players Big Problem of 1938 Cincinnati Reds

By International News Service

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16 — The Cincinnati Reds have a new manager in $20,000 a year Bill McKechnie, but of more importance in the opinion of General Manager Warren C. Giles is the acquisition of players for his manager to manage.

A good pilot is the foundation of a ball club, and a good foundation is necessary before a team can climb in the race, Giles believes. However, the manager can't hit, run or throw for his players.

And that's the situation on the Cincinnati ball club. Giles feels there is no use trying to kid himself into believing that the mere signing of a good manager will eliminate the team's difficulties. It will not. A capable pilot and a strengthened lineup must be combined, he said.

The problem now is to get players. And that's where Bill McKechnie will come in. He did wonders in Boston in uncovering Pitchers Fette and Turner, a couple of 20-game winners in their first year.

If the Reds of 1938 don't have another thing they will have speed. Speed and defense will put them in position to take some advantage of a pitching staff that has been ranked by many as outstanding in the league.

The 1937 club didn't have any power, finishing seventh in the batting lists, and it didn't have the defense to make up for it. It was seventh in the fielding ratings. The good pitching thus was discounted by the defensive lapses.

Speed and defense are a greater need at Crosley Field than in most parks because of the spaciousness of the playing area.

DAYTON WINS SECOND BUCKEYE LOOP TILT

Flyers, However, Must Meet Strong Foes in Quest of League Title.

By The Associated Press

There was new zip today to the word that Dayton's Flyers are out to go somewhere in the Buckeye conference.

His best team in years brought from gloomy Harry Baujan this comment:

"We've won two Buckeye games already, haven't we?"

His flyers won a hard-fought contest at Cleveland last night from traditional rival John Carroll 14 to 7, in one of five games involving Ohio college elevens. Coming from behind, Baujan's Flyers gained victory in the fourth period with both touchdowns coming in the last six minutes.

Baujan, former Notre Dame gridder, pointing his team for the Ohio university clash next Saturday, continued to moan about four other tough foes coming along.

With the Bobcats, the four probably represent the best in state competition. There's Western Reserve, which puts its record of no losses in its last 26 starts on the block today against Baldwin-Wallace's aerial circus. Then come Toledo, Miami and Marshall.

Dayton won its fourth straight of the season last night with an aerial attack and a blocked punt. Carroll is not scheduled for next year and a Dayton official said they probably wouldn't meet although there still are two open dates on the Flyers' schedule.

In two Ohio conference contests last night, Marietta last year's champs took to the air to beat Wittenberg 12 to 6 while Ashland defeated Findlay 13 to 0. Today's games in the loop will see Heidelberg going to Ohio Northern, Muskingum's undefeated team to Denison, Otterbein to Mount Union, Kent State to Wooster and Capital to Bowling Green.

In two other games last night in which Ohio teams participated, Bluffton went to Kalamazoo, Mich., to absorb a 22 to 0 beating while Rio Grande college Redmen scalped New River State 13 to 0.

TEAR GAS USED TO QUELL GRID RIOT

By The Associated Press

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 16—Tear gas was used by deputy sheriffs to quell rioting spectators at the St. Clairsville-Adena high school football game here yesterday. The fighting started when St. Clairsville scored its only touchdown. Order was restored. After the game, 200 persons joined in a second battle. This time tear gas was used to disperse the crowd. Adena won the game 13 to 6.

DODGERS DROP CLARK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—William Watson Clark, the veteran pitcher, has been released as coach by the Brooklyn club and offered a job as manager of one of the Dodgers' farms, it was announced today by John Gorman, Brooklyn business manager.

"I have a couple of clubs in mind for him," Gorman said, "but I must learn if Clark wants the job before I can make a definite announcement."

Whirling like an autogiro blade to permit take-offs and landings at low speed in confined areas, the upper wing of a new airplane remains rigid during flights.

PRISONERS TO HEAR GRID BROADCASTS

Minnesota Acting Warden To Provide Radio and Wall Chart.

By The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Minn., Oct. 16—Big time football—via radio and wall chart—enlisted Minnesota's prison population among its followers today for the first time.

The Minnesota-Michigan game launched the football program for all of the 1,415 prisoners who were not being disciplined for infraction of rules.

Acting Warden Leo Utecht said accounts for all major Gopher games will be brought to the convicts this fall under a "reform" program he instituted at the penitentiary. A chart showing the position of the ball on the playing field supplemented the broadcast.

Utecht's predecessor, John J. Sullivan who died a few months ago, never permitted radio broadcasts within prison walls. So for a number of prisoners who have served terms that began long before radio became commonplace in the home, today's football broadcast was a unique experience.

KENTON HIGH WINS AT WAPAKONETA

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 16 — Kenton High gridders defeated Wapakoneta, 25 to 0, at Wapakoneta last night, outplaying their foes in every department.

Ollie Renfrew, Kenton quarterback, lugged the ball across for three touchdowns and Jack Holycross, left half, accounted for the fourth. Bash made the extra point. Kenton scored once each in the second and fourth quarters and twice in the third.

Next week Rossford will come to Kenton for a night game, the last game here under the lights.

ON MONDAY CARD

Lefty Pacer, above, a New York wrestler, will visit Marion Monday night to take part in matches scheduled for the Steam Shovel gymnasium. He will meet Jimmy Spencer of Boston in one of the two 90-minute scraps. In the other featured attraction Silent Rattan, mute Kansas City tangler, will clash with Chicago's Dale Haddock. The program is to begin at 8:30 o'clock with a 20-minute preliminary.

SMITH, COOPER IN GOLF TOURNEY LEAD

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 16—Horton Smith and Harry Cooper looked like the boys to beat today as 16 crack professional golfers started around the half-way post in Oklahoma City's $5,000 four-ball tournament.

As they teed off for the fourth 18-hole round in this 126-hole marathon today, Smith and Cooper, the Chicago veterans, led with four points.

Right behind them, with three points, were Johnny Revolta of Chicago and Ray Mangrum of Dayton, O., who slowed Cooper and Smith by beating them, 1 up in the second round yesterday.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O.—Joe Sekyra, 175, Dayton, knocked out Barney Brock, 204, Houston, Tex. (5).

DETROIT—Izzy Gastanaga, 209, Cuba, outpointed John Henry Lewis, 156, Phoenix, Ariz., world light heavyweight champion (10), non-title.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Lee Ramage, 195½, San Diego, and Sonny Walker, 205, Arizona, drew (10).

LAZZERI AWAITING COACH OFFER AFTER RELEASE BY YANKS

May Take Job with Bees or Browns Following Retirement as Player.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Tony Lazzeri, the battle-weary second baseman who announced his retirement as an active player and then stole the World Series spotlight, stood on the threshold of the second phase of his major league career today.

Cast loose from the New York Yankees, the club he served for 12 years at second base, Anthony Michael is free to grab the managerial job he hopes will be offered. News of a probable offer of "coach or assistant manager" caused the Yanks to release Tony Thursday night, the club said, but it refused to divulge the team or teams that wished to dicker with Tony.

The St. Louis Browns and the Boston Bees are the clubs most prominently mentioned in speculation on Tony's 1938 destination. Each club lost a manager this season. Bill McKechnie left the Bees for the Cincinnati Reds and a substantial raise, and the Browns dropped Rogers Hornsby in mid-season.

Two other clubs in the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cleveland Indians are possibilities. The Indians re affirmed their belief in their present manager, Steve O'Neil only recently. The Tribe tried to get Tony as a playing manager in 1936 but the Yankees refused to let him go. However, O'Neil has not yet been signed for next season.

SEABISCUIT SEEKING TO REACH $200,00

By The Associated Press

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 16—A fast breaking, stretch-running four year-old stepped on the track here today intent on entering race dom's royal house of $200,000 winners.

Seabiscuit, C. S. Howard's money winner for 1937 sought take the $7,500 Laurel stakes with 126 pounds up, giving from three to 20 pounds to some dangerous competitors. He already has earned $194,285, most of it since he was purchased by Howard Jan. 1 for $7,500.

HORSE AND COW SALE
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 20
10:30 A. M.
Bucyrus Livestock Commission Co.
On Plymouth Road State Route 98
BUCYRUS, OHIO

The receipts of horses and mules on this market here this week totalled around 150 head. A good many were 2 and 3 year old colts, as we had a colt sale advertised. Prices on some of these looked lower, in fact all kinds sold cheaper than we have seen them for quite some time and the auction was very mean and draggy. It doesn't seem to make much difference what they bring in the markets they don't seem to buy them any cheaper in the country, as in most places they have more feed than they have had in years and they haven't a surplus of horses anywhere.

We feel sure that you can find a very good selection and at prices that will compare favorably with other places, if you will attend our sales.

If you plan on being here we would appreciate your wiring us at our expense as it makes a lot of difference, especially at this time, if we can advise the buyers in the country that we will have customers for certain kinds of horses.

You can buy and sell here each week to a good advantage.

Horses and Cows each Wednesday
Cattle, Hogs and Sheep each Saturday.

Your presence will be appreciated.

BUCYRUS LIVESTOCK COMMISSION CO.
H. C. Klink, Mgr.

STOCKS SLUMP TO 2 YEAR LOW

Week's Recession Linked to Renewed Doubts Regarding Outlook for Gains.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Prices of stocks and bonds were marked down this week to the lowest in about two years.

Weighing heavily on securities, Wall Street men said, were renewed doubts about the outlook for profits.

For one thing, business was blotchy. Steel operations continued to fall. Railway shipments of freight shrank a little. Higher prices for some products, notably motors, revived fears consumer resistance might be provoked. Some commodities slumped.

On the other hand, automobile output jumped briskly. Power production quickened. Goods moved more freely through retail channels. Wholesale markets got a boost from reduced inventories.

Around Wall Street one question was heard frequently: Does the current slackening in some lines mean merely a phase of temporary business indigestion, or is it a symptom of something more serious?" No firm answers were given.

On another point there was agreement. The behavior of the stock market itself jolted confidence in both financial and business circles.

Two examples were cited. On Wednesday, for instance, prices were shaken down all along the line by selling prompted by calls for margin traders to put up more cash. Then U. S. Steel, traditional leader, pushed out in front with a brisk rally. It hauled other steels forward, but the rest of the list refused to go along.

A second type of market action which disturbed technical analysts was the lack of vigor on rallies.

In some circles it was argued the buying urge was cut down by news from Washington Word that a special session of congress would be held led some to believe pending legislation on agriculture and wages and hours tended to obscure part of the general business outlook.

An event which commanded wide Wall Street attention was the speech of Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank of New York, the nation's largest bank

Business news did not cause the break, he said and foreign selling was not responsible. The severity of the crack, he held, was due to over-rigid government regulation In this and other views the banker gave voice to what many in Wall Street have long said privately.

Continued fighting in the far east and a fresh war scare in the Mediterranean dulled the appetite of traders for securities although the financial district has been hardened to this brand of newr for some time.

The animosity between France and Italy stimulated selling of Italian loans in the bond market, but losses suffered were later recovered in good measure.

Among domestic obligations railroad issues bore the brunt of selling prompted by reports showing smaller profits. Industrial and utility liens were also droopy. U. S. government securities were quiet with price swings narrow.

In commodity markets a slightly higher average was struck Farm products rose, industrial staples were lower.

LIVERPOOL DECLINES CLIP CHICAGO WHEAT

Rain in U. S. and Better Growing Weather in Argentine Also Bearish.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—The wheat market was depressed today by a sharp reaction at Liverpool assisted by rains in southeastern United States and reports of better weather in Australia. The Liverpool market was 1¾-2¼ cents lower than due.

Export business was small, estimated at 300,000 bushels and that mostly Canadian wheat. Trade was at a very slow pace following the initial decline which at one time carried prices down two cents a bushel. The market rallied slightly near the close.

Wheat closed weak, but somewhat above the bottom, at 1-1¾ cents below yesterday's finish, December 99¼-¾, May 99¾-⅞, and corn was unchanged to ¼ cent down. December 58¾-59, May 60, with oats ¼-⅜ off.

STOCK UPTURN NOT HELD WELL

Gains Up to Two Points Shaded Amid Realizing Just Before Close.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Stock market traders stepped back into the buying arena in today's market and many issues recovered fractions to two or more points of their recent sharp losses before tripping over late selling

Activity picked up substantially with the ticker tape occasionally speeding its recording machinery. Offerings in volume fell the list in the concluding half hour and extreme gains were reduced to or cancelled in numerous cases

Brokerage explanation of the early come-back largely centered on revival of hopes federal authorities will provide a cushion for falling prices by easing margin requirements and that the special session of congress may take notice of the financial gloom by at least amending the much-criticized capital gains and undistributed profits tax laws.

Helpful also was lessening of tension in Europe's following agreement of Italy to withdraw part of her forces from Spain.

Chrysler was a feature of the brief session, rebounding more than three points at the best after a drop of 10 in the past two days. Coppers exhibited strength along with specialties Steels, rails, oils and utilities were relatively narrow

Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares

Commodities were mixed. Bonds inclined to selective improvement.

Business news furnished little ammunition for either side, but expansion plans attributed to several corporations were seen as cheerful straws in the wind.

Shares favored most of the time—although a number slipped at the close — were Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, General Electric, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Chesapeake Corp., International Business Machines, Johns-Manville, Liggett & Myers "B," Paramount and New Haven Railroad.

Among items studied in the boardrooms was the estimate of the F. W. Dodge Corp., indicating construction work started during September in 37 eastern states fell almost 10 per cent below the level for the same 1936 month and was off about 28 per cent from August this year.

Holders of shares in companies catering to the agricultural population noted figures of the department of agriculture placing 1937 crop production at only 6 per cent under the record established in 1920. It was believed total for the year would be the largest since 1926.

GRANGE HEARS J. W. FICHTER

Lecturer of State Farm Group Speaks at Bethlehem Meeting.

Joseph W. Fichter, lecturer of the Ohio state grange, an instructor in government at Miami university and a past assistant director of education in Ohio, spoke at a meeting of Bethlehem grange at the hall northwest of Waldo last night.

Taking "Trends in Government" as his subject, Mr. Fichter traced the historical developments which he said have caused people to be actively interested in two present-day conceptions of government: one, the democratic form like those of the United States, Great Britain and France, and the dictator form illustrated by Italy, Germany, Russia and Japan.

He called attention to three principles set down in this country's declaration of independence as to the purposes of government; security, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. All nations, regardless of their form of government, are seeking these objectives, he said.

One of the big difficulties democracies encounter, the speaker said, is providing its people with security without encroaching on their liberties.

Despite the problems of the democratic form of government, there certainly should be no though of our nation going to the limits of personal control many other nations have, he asserted.

Teachers from the Waldo, Prospect and Pleasant schools were among the visitors at last night's session. There also were groups from Montgomery grange and Marion.

The charter was draped in memory of John Mchaffey.

L. G. Jones, Marion public schools music supervisor, led the group singing. A male quartet composed of Oscar Kaelber, Robert Denzer, Walter Bender and Clifford Strine, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Ullmer, sang a group of songs, and a group of young members directed by Miss Marie Bender and accompanied by Miss Magdaline Strine also sang.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blue and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Darst served on the refreshments committee. A Hallowe'en jamboree is to be held in two weeks with Miss Dorothy Bender as chairman. A masquerade party is planned, with prizes for original costumes.

District Social Security Board Set for Service

Prepared To Receive Claims and Issue Account Numbers, Manager Reports.

The Mansfield district office of the social security board is prepared to issue all account numbers and receive claims from persons entitled to share in retirement pensions under the social security act, R. G. Mish, former Marion man who is manager for the district, announced today. The district office serves Marion, Morrow, Wyandot, Crawford, Ashland and Richland counties.

Persons who have reached age 65 and those who are the widows or close relatives of those who have died and who were in employment covered by the act during some part of 1937 may also have benefits due them or the estate of the deceased, he pointed out.

In filing claims, there will be no necessity for legal advice to assist in the completion of claim papers, he said. Six forms are provided for (1) wage earners, (2) widow or widower, (3) other close relative, (4) executors or administrators, (5) guardians or committees of legally incompetent wage earners. The sixth form is known as the "statement of employer" and is a simplified report giving the total amount of wages earned by the worker as shown by his employment record.

Where the claim is over $100, supporting papers are necessary for the adjudication but these do not need to be filed unless the employe has received more than $2,857 in wages since Dec. 31, 1936. Where the claim is less than $100, a signed form witnessed by two persons is used, obviating the necessity of notary fees.

"Only a small portion of those eligible have filed claims and though the number of claims being filed is gradually increasing in volume, it is only a fraction of what it should be," Mr. Mish said.

The district offices of the social security board are located in the Richland Trust building in Mansfield and from that point all applications for account numbers are issued and all claims handled. Mr. Mish urged that claims be filed as early as possible.

DANNER SHOWING NEW BUICK MODELS

1938 SERIES 40 BUICK TOURING SEDAN

Buick engineers claim four outstanding engineering developments along with major improvements in style and mechanical design for the 1938 models now on display at the Danner Buick Co. showrooms at 245 North Main street.

An engine development for gasoline economy, new rear suspension which makes for better riding and steering, different body mounting and the optional self-shifting transmission are the mechanical changes of importance. The engine makes use of a dome shaper piston which designers claim controls the burning of the fuel mixture.

The new cars are offered in four series, the 40 special, in the lower medium price field, the 60 Century and the 80 roadmaster in the medium price field and the 90 Limited, a deluxe car. They are being produced in a total of 21 body types. The series 40 Buicks account for about 70 per cent of the total production.

In styling the Buick follows a streamline motif with die-cast radiator grilles in two sections with the color line of the hood carried down through the center. Long bullet-shaped headlamps are faired into the radiator shell. The back of the cars are also restyled with the gasoline tank filler cap being placed under the fender to completely smoothe up the streamline treatment.

Buick bodies in all line are of unisteel turret top construction and are equipped with no-draft ventilation. Interiors of the cars are redesigned with the instrument panel having a center recessed section to take the radio grille with control knobs just below. Windshields and all windows are of safety glass in all models and this year defrosters are built into the windshield moulding so that heated air will blow directly on the glass.

The torque free springing involves the use of coil spring rear suspension in combination with transport airplane type shock absorbers and a radium rod that locates the rear axles and wheels sidewise. Engineers claim that bouncing and pitching of passengers is greatly lessened by the fine balance established between the shock absorbers and the coil springs.

New cars on display at the Danner Buick Co. include a four-door touring sedan of the 60 series and the following models in the 40 series: four-door touring and sports sedans, two-door touring and sports sedans. Models of the 60, 80 and 90 series are expected today or early next week. Also on display is a chassis only of the 40 series, being used to demonstrate the new features of the 1938 models.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Don David Baldauf, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 17, 1936.

The golden gates were open,
And heavenly angels smiled,
And with their tuneful harpstrings
Welcomed the little child.

They shouted high and holy,
A child hath entered in,
Safe from all temptation,
A soul is sealed from sin.

On earth we miss the little one
We sighed and wept and sighed,
And wondered if another such
As ours had ever died.

Oh! Had we seen through the open gates
The welcome to him given,
We never would have wished Donnie
Back from his home in Heaven.

Mrs. Martha Baldauf
and daughters.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Nerve Upset.

SOME NERVOUS and high-strung individuals suffer from what the doctors call "phobias." That is, they have abnormal and fixed fears. For example, there may be a firm belief on the part of the victim that he has syphilis. This is called "syphilophobia." Another is "agoraphobia," the dread of open spaces. A rather common form is that known to the doctors as "claustrophobia." This is the fear of small or confining places, with perhaps an unwillingness to enter a building or take an elevator.

Other persons constantly seek to avoid what they consider to be the contaminating touch of another. The fear of using even the clean end of a towel or a wash basin that may have been used by someone else is a common obsession. Such persons indulge in excessive washing of face and scrubbing of hands.

A more serious form of obsession or fixed idea is the impulse to jump off the top of a high building. No doubt you have encountered such individuals. The doctor frequently meets cases of this sort.

There are individuals who complain of shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and a sense of constriction in the chest or throat. There may be no satisfactory physical explanation of such symptoms. They are not unlike the phobias I have mentioned.

In many instances these strange ideas arouse unnecessary apprehension. Usually they are harmless and yield readily to treatment. Those who have such symptoms should consult with the family physician, or a neurologist. A careful investigation of all possible causes for the disorder should be made. In most instances complete cure occurs after the patient is made to understand the emotional reason for his condition.

It is well to bear in mind that none of these conditions is a form of insanity. There are always related to some simple nervous upset. Sensible advice will probably end the disturbance. But it may be necessary to receive treatment for some length of time.

Under no circumstances should the patient resort to self-medication. The doctor may prescribe a simple sedative, but improved living conditions will doubtless be enough. The diet should be simple and nutritious. Adequate hours of rest and relaxation, as well as an abundance of fresh air and sunshine, are recommended.

A change of occupation or perhaps a well-earned vacation may be advised. The importance of attention to the general health cannot be overstated. A complete medical examination is the first step toward recovery.

Indigestion, localized infection, poorly ventilated sleeping room neglected teeth—there are doze of factors that influence, first physical and then the mental state. Study of all these ente into a program for restored and right thinking.

RIDGEWAY SERVICE

A homecoming and rally will be held at the M. P. church Ridgeway Sunday with an all day service. Music during afternoon and evening will furnished by the Stinson accordion band.

A glove has been invented for golfers that is asserted to give left hand equal gripping power the right on clubs.

Brimson of New York City will speak. The Ohio Baptist Pastors' conference will meet at 3 p. m., with Rev. L. J. Ramsey of Mt. Vernon, president, in charge. Dr. Joseph Taylor, missionary in China since 1903 will speak.

The convention, of which Rev I. N. DePuy of Dayton is president, will be in session at night at 7:30. Rev. Roy D. Wood of Painesville will deliver the annual sermon, taking as his subject, "The Challenge of the Changeless."

Speakers Tuesday morning will be Dr. Owen C. Brown of Philadelphia, Mrs. Clover and Dr. Herbert W. Virgin of Chicago. Rev. J. S. Brinkman of Hamilton and Rev. A. H. Giuliano of New Matamoras will lead conferences in the afternoon. The women's banquet will be held at 5:30. Charles A. Wells of New York City will be the speaker Tuesday night.

Wednesday morning speakers will be chairmen of the nominating and resolutions committees, Rev. J. H. Lloyd who is chairman of the Ohio board promotion, Mrs. G. E. Bartlett of Marietta and A. J. Hudson of Cleveland.

The afternoon session, in the interest of Christian education, will open with a worship period in charge of Rev. W. T. Packer, dean of Rio Grande college. Rev. Millard Breisford of Granville will preside for a business session of the Ohio Baptist education society. Addresses will be given by Rev. J. H. Satterfield of Canton and Rev. Arthur Cowley of Cincinnati.

The convention will close Wednesday night with an address on "The Great Secret," by Rev. Theo. F. Adams of Richmond, Va.

CHURCH LEADER TO PREACH SUNDAY

Rev. C. S. Gee of Columbus, general presbyter for Columbus and Marion presbyteries, will preach Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church.

Rev. Gee, former pastor in Delaware, is also secretary for a number of the synod's important committees, including vacancy and supply, united promotion, national missions, evangelism and program of synod.

The forest lawn choir will sing under the direction of Mrs. C. L. Midlam.

Sunday night there will be a sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Carriker, and music by the men's chorus.

LAST MEETING HELD BY CHURCH GROUP

The Evangelical group of the Evangelical and Reformed church held what probably will be its last regional group meeting on Wednesday and Thursday at Wapakoneta.

Attending from Marion were Rev. H. C. Ahrens of Salem church, C. G. Roecker, representing the church, Mrs. Leo Keller, representing the Sunday school, and Miss Grace Koenig, representing the women and young people of the church.

Within the year the constitution of the merged Evangelical and Reformed denominations will be formally adopted and go into effect. The action is expected to take place before the annual fall group meetings, and it is anticipated that next fall the merged denominations will have joint sessions.

Mrs. Keller served as leader of the Sunday school religious education group at the conference, with Rev. Ahrens acting as advisor, and Miss Koenig acted as secretary of the young people's group.

SERVICES ARRANGED AT GILEAD CHURCH

Special gospel services have been arranged for this week-end at the Gilead Friends church at Quakerdom community south of Mt. Gilead with Rev. and Mrs. G. Arnold Hodgin as speakers. Rev. and Mrs. Hodgin, as missionary evangelists, held a two-weeks revival at the church two years ago after having completed four world missionary trips to 25 different countries. They are now on the teaching staff of Asbury college at Wilmore, Ky.

Services will be held Saturday at 8 p. m., Sunday at 11 a. m. and Sunday at 7 p. m. and again at 8 p. m. it was announced by Rev. Kochnel, pastor of the church.

METHODISTS TO MEET AT FOREST

Representatives from the Prospect Street, Wesley, Asbury and Epworth M. E. churches will be among those attending the Lima district conference of Methodist Episcopal churches to be held at the M. E. church in Forest next Wednesday. The meeting will begin at 9:30 in the morning and continue throughout the day.

CHURCH TO COMBAT VENEREAL DISEASES

Episcopalians Vote To Help Campaigns Against Syphilis.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16 — A move to put the Protestant Episcopal church in the campaign against venereal diseases was initiated today.

Rt. Rev. Henry Saint George Tucker of Richmond, Va., bishop of Virginia, was elected presiding bishop of the church.

Bishop Tucker, who is 63 years old, is eligible to serve six years before reaching the newly established retirement age. He succeeds Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry of Providence, bishop of Rhode Island, who has served as presiding bishop for the last seven years.

The house of deputies approved and sent to the house of bishops for concurrence these two resolutions.

Indorsing the campaigns of health organizations against syphilis and urging church members to cooperate in the dissemination of information for combatting it, and

Requiring couples to submit a physician's certificate certifying they were free of venereal diseases before they could be married by an Episcopalian minister.

Both actions will be concurred in by the bishops, informed churchmen said. That relating to a physician's certificate would become a part of the church's canons, but would not apply in states where such certificates are required by civil law.

The controversy over the Church League of Industrial Democracy, an organization composed largely of Episcopalians which is opposed to the profit system, came to the fore again today as Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union, a C. I. O. affiliate, came here to speak before the league.

The invitation to Martin has been criticized by Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of New York, and other churchmen on the ground it might be misconstrued as placing the church on the side of the C. I. O. in its fight with the American Federation of Labor.

The convention, meanwhile, gave much attention to issues involving war.

It voted to raise $300,000 for missionary and relief activities in China;

WIDMER ARRESTED IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia office, said "I have no comment to make about this case."

Detective Lieut. William Engle of the city police, who questioned Widmer, said the prisoner admitted he escaped from Joliet prison where he was serving a life term for murder after 12 years.

"I joined the Birds," Engle quoted him as saying, "helped to pull off four or five bank jobs and escaped after being arrested and imprisoned in Cleveland."

Got $18,000 at Bank

"The last job I did," Engle reported Widmer as saying, "we got $18,000 from a bank. I kept $10,000 of it and my two partners split the other $8,000."

Widmer and the Birds were awaiting trial for a series of Cleveland bank robberies when they broke out of jail there.

All had escaped previously from the Missouri prison in separate breaks. Frank Bird, 38, was serving life for murder and his brother Charles was doing a 10-year term for robbery and auto theft.

Indiana police established that the Brady gang had no part in the killing of Conn and Widmer revealed the county jail fugitives fled to Pittsburgh a few days after their escape, Sept. 22

Conn's bullet-drilled body was found Sept. 28 in a ditch near Freeport, which is near the West Virginia line and on the southern Cleveland-Pittsburgh route. He had been murdered the day before while on a routine traffic arrest assignment.

It was believed Conn was killed by persons whom Conn stopped on the road and who did not want to reveal their identity.

Attributed Murder to Bird Gang

Col. Black immediately attributed the murder to the Bird brothers, Charles and Frank, and Widmer, and asked David L. Cowles, superintendent of the Cleveland police ballistics bureau, to examine one of the bullets which killed Conn.

Cowles found it came from a small-caliber, foreign-made gun of a type believed to be possessed by the escaped bank robbers.

With the arrest of James Dalhover, Brady gang member, after Al Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer Jr., were killed in Bangor, Me., Tuesday, it was announced that Dalhover claimed the Conn murder as one of the Brady gang's feats.

Returning from Indianapolis last night, where Dalhover is being held, Col. Lynn Black said questioning of the gangster brought a denial that he had linked the Conn slaying to the Brady gang, despite reports.

Cites "Offer to Confess

Black said Dalhover offered to "confess" the murder of Conn "if it would help any, since one more murder wouldn't make any difference to me now." He said he was not overlooking the possibility that further evidence might prove Dalhover's denial false.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau, was reported on his way to Philadelphia from Washington to question Widmer personally.

A .38-caliber automatic was on the seat Widmer's side when they arrested him, according to the policemen, John Egan and John Foley, who also found three stolen license plates—two from New Jersey and one from Pennsylvania. The gangster had $100.

Agents said Widmer told them the gang fled to Pittsburgh a few days after the armed escape, and that three days ago he went to Philadelphia with Charles and Barbara Bird, leaving Frank Bird and his wife, Sylvia, in Pittsburgh.

Black To Quiz Widmer Today

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—The trail toward State Highway Patrolman George Conn's slaying solution turned today toward Philadelphia in another of its wanderings which have included Wisconsin, Maine and Indiana.

Col. Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, sought to question James Widmer, Bird brothers gangster captured at Philadelphia yesterday, to confirm his announced theory that the Bird gang killed Conn near Freeport Sept. 27.

Only yesterday Col. Black returned from Indianapolis, Ind., after deciding that the ill-fated Brady gang was not connected with Conn's death. There he questioned James Dalhover, who was captured in Bangor, Me., when Al Brady and Clarence Lee Shaffer Jr., were killed by authorities.

5 KILLED AS TRUCK AND AUTO COLLIDE

Two of Dead Identified as from Illinois After Crash in Indiana.

By The Associated Press

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Oct. 16 — Five persons were killed and another injured critically near here this morning in a head-on collision of a passenger automobile and a heavy truck.

Two of the dead were identified from papers in their pockets as Edward A. Beckett of Camp Point (Adams county) Ill., and John H. Hoke, also of Camp Point. Two women, believed to be the wives of the men, and a small boy also were killed.

Estel Johnson of Indianapolis, driver of the truck, suffered a fractured skull and physicians said he may die.

Rush county officials were unable to learn exactly how the accident occurred. The passenger automobile was traveling northwest.

All five of the dead were riding in the passenger automobile. Hoke was a one-armed man. The crash jammed the steering wheel of the truck against Johnson and he was [illegible] in the cab of his car.

humanity, to clinics where they are baptized with cholera disinfectant.

Too weak to sustain life and too poor to shelter their young, many of these forlorn mothers leave their infants furtively on the doorsteps of American and other foreign householders.

Others deposits their mites of babies in baskets especially placed outside of such institutions as "The Door of Hope," run by the Catholic Sisters of Mercy.

More desperate mothers hurl their young in the river or leave them on garbage heaps outside the international settlement.

Those babies who survive the horrors and rigors of war eventually become what are called "wolf children," who infest dark lanes and gutters.

Many of these "wolf waifs" eventually find their way to a children's home conducted by 70-year-old Maud Truxton Henderson of Richmond, Va., who, although unmarried, has an unofficial family of 250 children rescued from the streets.

When I visited this home—which is on the very edge of the war zone—shells were falling all around, but this gallant southern woman, who has dedicated her life to China's poor, refused to leave.

and described how Mrs. Hahn came to his office the night of June 1 and asked him to come to Wagner's room.

"She wanted to know if he was going to die," Dr. Cluft testified before the questioning of Assistant Prosecutor Loyal S. Martin.

"She wanted me to come over and see her uncle, Mr. Wagner," Dr. Cluft testified. "She told me she was a graduate nurse from the old country."

"Was there any arsenic poison in the pills which you gave him?" Martin asked.

"There was none," Dr. Cluft answered.

Mrs. Martin told the court that Mrs. Hahn came into the room of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Colby, and inquired if "any old men" lived in the building.

"Mother said that several old men were living there and inquired about who she wanted," Mrs. Martin said.

"I saw her next on a Sunday filling up a glass and walking toward the bed in Wagner's room," she asserted.

The testimony was given after Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt asserted earlier in the day that "this woman killed so many there isn't another human being like her on the face of the earth."

PROSPECT STREET CLASS ENTERTAINED

A combined business and social meeting of Mizpah class of the Prospect Street M. E. Sunday school Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Hecker of 381 Windsor street, was in the form of a farewell party for Mrs. Clara Kinsler and Mrs. John Reidenbaugh. Mrs. Kinsler will move to Agosta in the near future, and Mrs. Reidenbaugh will leave soon to spend the winter in Florida. Mrs. Reidenbaugh was an associate hostess.

Officers chosen during a business session are Mrs. Thelma Ruth, president, Mrs. Edward Ladd, secretary, Mrs. Sylvester Keyes, treasurer, and Mrs. Fred Hecker, reporter. The evening was spent socially and with contests. Lunch was served.

LETTER CARRIERS AUXILIARY MEETS

Mrs. Paul Fetter of 163 Hane avenue was hostess to the Ladies' Auxiliary of Letter Carriers last night at her home. A letter was read from Mrs. Louise Kepke of Cleveland, delegate-at-large to the national convention held last month in Kansas City, Mo., in which she gave a report of the convention. A contest was won by Mrs. Clifford Chapman and Mrs. Nelson Irvin, and a guessing bee prize was presented Mrs. Ralph Roseberry. Plans were discussed for a Hallowe'en party for which the members will be joined by their families.

A.F.L. AGREES TO TALK PEACE WITH C.I.O.

bling and attend conference advise the Pittsburgh."

George Harrison, chairman of the American Federation of Labor peace committee, said today "we'll be there," when told of the latest C.I.O. peace proposal.

The federation had turned down two previous proposals this week because, leaders said, the C.I.O. insisted upon the A.F.L. agreeing to certain C.I.O. principles in advance.

Capital Expects Accord

In Washington, government labor officials expressed belief that, once leaders of the two factions gathered around a table, they would find means of composing even the most serious differences.

They cited the high cost of rival labor organizing campaigns as one possible incentive for a settlement.

Administration officials in Washington privately expressed hope the unification movement would succeed. A solidified labor organization, they explained, would help new deal candidates in the 1938 elections.

Other reaction from Washington was the prediction of an authority high in labor circles that neither the A.F.L. nor the C.I.O. would ever bolt a peace conference. Neither side will want to risk the discredit of quitting the peace table without getting some kind of a settlement, that official, who declined to be quoted by name said.

Green's declaration was contained in a telegram replying to the C.I.O.'s second peace suggestion this week—a proposal that 10 representatives from each organization meet in Washington Oct. 25.

Won't Accept Industrial Plan

For a second time, the A.F.L. forces flatly declined to make acceptance of the industrial form of union organization, advocated by the C.I.O., a condition upon which they would negotiate.

"We regard your answer (to the A.F.L.) reply to the C.I.O.'s first peace proposal, as a well designed attempt to mislead the public and confuse the issue," the council's telegram to the C.I.O. said. At Atlantic City, meanwhile, Lewis ended five days of strategy conferences with leaders of his unions by exhorting them to renew their campaign for improvement of working conditions for American labor built around C.I.O. principles of industrial unionism.

His chieftains immediately took up the cry and expressed determination to report more progress at a national convention they authorized the C.I.O. executive council to call at any time.

4,000,000 Members

They reported this week almost 4,000,000 members, total expenditures of $1,758,800 in 16 months, and claimed their unions were thriving despite encounters with industry and occasional organization difficulties.

The conference unanimously approved a resolution pledging the C.I.O. to cooperate with companies which signed collective bargaining agreements with it, criticized some actions of the administration, congress and two government departments and condemned Japan for its undeclared war with China.

But, in all the discussions there was prime interest in maneuvers with the A.F.L. for a reconciliation of their clashing organizational theories as their reported combined total of 8,000,000 members could be fused into one labor movement.

MORRAL GIRL HONORED

Miss Bessie Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dean of Morral, has been elected to the second consecutive term as secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Ohio State university according to word received here. Miss Dean, a junior, is president of the Phi Mu sorority, social chairman of the Panhellenic council and a member of the university nurses' club.

TOWNSHIP DITCH WORK COMPLETED

Engineer's Office Figuring Montgomery—Grand Assessments.

Improvement of the A. C. Brown ditch in Montgomery and Grand townships has been completed and the cost now being computed for making assessments, deputies of County Engineer Carl H. Torrer said today. The work, involving construction of a new headwall and necessary back-fill, was done by men working under Harry Williams of LaRue.

Mr. Williams was awarded the contract by county commissioners on his bid of $377.01. The work started late last month.

The engineer's office is now figuring the exact cost of the improvement and will make assessments against the benefited landowners, who may pay in cash within the next month after the assessment are made or let the assessment be placed on their tax duplicates.

LEIBOWITZ SUES MRS. E. W. M'LEAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean has been sued for $15,000 by Attorney Samuel Leibowitz of New York, who charged she had reneged on a promise to pay him a fee for helping defend Bruno Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case.

Leibowitz said in a brief filed in district court yesterday that he had accepted the wealthy Washington woman's commission for a "reasonable" fee. He said he believed $15,000 was proper remuneration but that Mrs. McLean had refused to pay.

TWO MEN KILLED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 16—Two men were killed and another was injured in a truck-automobile collision near South Charleston today.

Walter E. East of Springfield, formerly of Greenfield, and Harry Cartmell of Blanchester, died when a car driven by Edward Nuss of Springfield collided with Cartmell's trailer-truck at an intersection. Nuss was not hurt seriously.

A fire followed the crash.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Struthers of Iberia are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Hazel Alexa, to James Groves, son of Mrs. Ed Chickedantz of Iberia which took place Saturday, Oct. 9. The ceremony was read by Rev. H. E. Thompson, pastor of the Federated church of Iberia, at his home. Upon their return from a wedding trip they will make their home in Iberia.

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of Miss Geraldine Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morris of Lima, and Harold Hochstetler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hochstetler of Bucyrus, formerly of Marion. The marriage took place on Aug. 24.

Mr. Hochstetler, who attended Harding high school, is associated with the C. H. Black Co. of Lima where he and his wife are at home at 643 East Elizabeth street. His parents will return to make their home in Marion next week.

Moorland Concert To Be Convention Feature Here

MARION music patrons and visitors here for the annual meeting of Central district of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs have a rare treat in store in the concert to be given by Miss Carol Moorland, pianist, of New York City, who will appear as a guest artist on the initial program of the Marion Lecture-Recital club Tuesday evening. Her first season in America, Miss Moorland will be heard here just previous to presenting her Town Hall recital in New York City on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 30.

Convention Feature

The concert, in addition to inaugurating the 1937-38 season for the Lecture-Recital club, will be a highlight of the district convention which will open with a meeting of the state board Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. James C. Woods, district president, will preside for the one-day session on Wednesday, for which the Lecture-Recital club members will be hostesses. The concert, as well as the board meeting and convention session, will be at Hotel Harding.

Miss Moorland returned early in the year from abroad where she studied and traveled. Born in New Orleans, she has spent the greater part of the last 14 years in Europe, returning to this country only three times, and then only for short stays. Nevertheless she looks upon New Orleans as her home town, which she describes as "having a charming, hospitable manner of living that no European city can equal."

Extensive Training

Miss Moorland went to France in 1922 and for four years attended boarding schools. In 1929 she went to the Sternaches Konservatorium in Berlin studying for a year under Claudio Arrau. From 1930 to 1934 she studied and traveled in Europe, taking her [illegible] work under Simon Barer, and before returning to America made two concert tours.

Miss Moorland's program will include the same numbers she will present in the Town Hall recital. They are: "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," Bach-Tausig; the Allegro, andante and allegretto "Sonata C Major," Mozart; Schumann's "Scenes from Childhood," a group of 13 musical interpretations, "Sonatine," modere, menuet, anime, by Ravel; "Clair de Lune," DeBussy; "Impromptu," Faure; "Caprice," Sibelius; "Tarantella," Liszt.

There will be single admissions available on the mezzanine floor Tuesday evening, Mrs. Karl W. Schell president of the Lecture-Recital club, announces.

TO ENTER SCHOOL

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kidd of 649 North Main street will leave Monday for Chicago where they will enter the Chicago Evangelistic school. Mr. Kidd will take a course in theology and Mrs. Kidd will take up the study of evangelistic singing.

PLANS IN HUSKING CONTEST COMPLETED

Upper Sandusky C. of C. Arranges Banquet for Contestants Before Race.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 16—Final arrangements were made at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here Thursday evening for the annual state corn husking contest which will be held Oct. 27 in the Walton Bros. 100-acre field adjoining the county fairgrounds. A banquet for guest contestants will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 26, in the Union High school auditorium at 6:30 o'clock with Avery G. Clinger of Columbus, as guest speaker.

Over 500 rooms have already been registered with Arthur E. Berg, chairman of the committee in charge of securing lodging for the expected visitors. Thirteen concessions at the fairgrounds and 20 local restaurants will provide dinners, lunches and refreshments for the crowd, which is now expected to exceed 35,000. A public address system will be set up at the fairgrounds in order that the crowd may follow the progress of the huskers. A large number of the finest looking teams and riding horses in this county have also been secured to do the heavy work for gleaners and officials.

Two-Day Training School for NYA Workers Closes

A two-day NYA training institute for the instruction of staff members who will handle the winter recreation program was brought to a close at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday. The sessions were held to assist the NYA staff in the organization, procedure and operation of Gra-Y recreation clubs. Arrangements for the meetings of the staff and the programs were in charge of Charles Caprino, recreational director.

During the meetings, discussions were presented by Harold Bill on the Gra-Y constitution, officers and purpose: Ulen Putman on committees, programs and competitive work; Donald Cramer on club procedure and general conduct of club meetings; William Woessner on gymnasium and swimming programs and Miss Dorothea Haas on discussion periods and business meetings.

Nineteen recreational groups have already been organized to participate in the winter program. Among them are 13 Gra-Y clubs, seven of which are composed of boys and six of girls, groups of boys and girls at the Marion county children's home and Central Junior high school and two groups of North Side boys. Plans for their programs were set up by Charles Caprino.

Clubs Meet Weekly

The Gra-Y clubs will meet once each week at the Y for a program which will include activity in the game room, business meeting, recreation period, talks, gymnasium and swim periods. In their individual meetings the club members will plan outside activities, including hikes and playground affairs. Each club will be under the direction of a Gra-Y leader.

The schedule of meetings for the clubs follows: Monday—Marion girls at 4 p. m., Tuesday—Olney girls and Oakland and Silver boys at 4 p. m., Wednesday—Oakland girls at 4 p. m., Thursday—Silver and Glenwood girls at 4 p. m., Friday—Oak girls and Oak and North Main boys at 4 p. m., Saturday—boys of Olney, Mark and Glenwood in morning.

Each Gra-Y club, in addition to having its own leader, will be supervised by a member of the NYA staff. The boys' clubs now take part in both softball and touch football league and another feature of their program is the handicraft classes, which also are open to the girls.

Facilities At Home

At the children's home available facilities include a play room, playgrounds and other facilities for recreation work for both boys and girls. They participate in both physical and mental exercise program. Approximately 100 children at the home take part in the activity. At Central Junior High school two groups have been organized for the winter, composed of seventh grade boys and girls. They have three meetings a week for recreation and handicraft work.

Two outside groups have been organized among boys from Marion's North Side. They will meet at the Y each Saturday at 5 p. m. for club meetings and gymnasium programs. Three days each week they will play football, volleyball and have nature study sessions in the city parks.

School executives, children's home and Y officials compose the advisory board in charge of the program. Among those on the board are C. A. Hudson, city school superintendent, E. L. Barkley, superintendent of the children's home, Earl N. Hale, executive secretary of the Y, and the following school principals, W. E. Orcutt of Central Junior High, Miss Alice Dombaugh of Oakland, Mrs. Anna Sutherland of Glenwood, Miss Luella Scholl of Olney, Miss Harriet Christian of Mark, Miss Philomen Gregg of North Main, Miss Alice Sneckenberger of Oak, and J. C. Eymon of Silver.

WORKERS IN DRIVE TO ATTEND PARTY

A masquerade party a week from tonight for the volunteer workers in the annual Forget-Me-Not drive of Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans of the World war, was announced at a meeting of the women's auxiliary Thursday night at the armory. Mrs. Lucille Edington, commander, was in charge of the meeting. The party will be in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Cuba Harraman, Mrs. Minnie Bowen, Mrs. Esther Koeppen and Miss Anna Marie Lawrence.

A membership drive was started, with Mrs. Mildred Pickrel as chairman and Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Koeppen as team captains. One application for membership was accepted.

On Thursday, Oct. 28 the women's auxiliary of Marion Post No. 3313, Veteran of Foreign Wars, will be guests of the D. A. V. auxiliary to celebrate the completion of a joint quilting project to raise funds for the welfare work of the two groups. The quilt top was donated by Mrs. Ella Cozart.

Mrs. Vena Miller, welfare chairman, is in charge of the auxiliary's work of making comfort kits which will be given to the Marion County Red Cross chapter to send as Christmas gifts to soldiers at outposts and in distant American possessions. Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Josephine Uline were appointed auditors for the second quarter and first half of the year.

PEARL ST. P.-T. A. MEETS AT SCHOOL

Mrs. R. A. Todd, new president of the Pearl Street Parent-Teacher association, presided at the first meeting of the 1937-38 school year yesterday afternoon at the school. One hundred and thirty-three members were present.

Community singing led by Mrs. Harold Osborn was followed by devotions led by Mrs. O. C. Alspach. Mrs. Todd was named to represent the group at the state convention next week in Cleveland. The sum of $2 was voted to the Y. M. C. A. fund drive, and action was taken to supply the school office with a duplicator. Announcement was made that 10 workers from each school P.-T. A. unit will be called on to conduct the annual "tag day" on Saturday, Oct. 30. Miss Margaret Seiter's room won the attendance banner.

A new feature of the meeting was the seating of the mothers in groups with the teacher in whose room their children are pupils. Refreshments were in charge of the social chairman, Mrs. W. A. Corbett.

MISSING CAR LINKED TO HARDIN HOLDUPS

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 16—The mystery of a missing automobile "borrowed" from a local dealer, today was involved in local investigation of the robbery of two filling station attendants Thursday night.

Investigators were reticent as to how the new automobile may be involved in the crime but proceeded with a radio broadcast of its description and license numbers, with a request that the car be stopped and its occupant or occupants held.

CONTEST HELD AT CIRCLE MEETING

Mrs. Grace Cyders and Mrs. Katie Hazen won contest honors at a meeting of Loyal Circle, Wayside Rose Rebekah lodge, yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Jennie Hagemann of Gurley avenue. A short business session preceded the social hour. The hostess was assisted in serving lunch by Mrs. J. W. Higgins.

HOME CIRCLE MEETS AT LLEWELLYN HOME

Mrs. J. B. Llewellyn was hostess to members of the Women's Home circle yesterday at her home on East Church street. The afternoon was spent socially with Mrs. E. E. Parish and Mrs. Frank Tschanen giving readings.

Luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. John Parish, Mrs. Richard Parish and Mrs. E. E. Parish. Mrs. Kate Clapsaddle and Mrs. E. E. Parish were named to arrange a program for the next meeting in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Tschanen on South Prospect street. Guests included Mrs. B. B. Carter, Mrs. John Parish and Mrs. Richard Parish.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM GIVEN AT SCHOOL

A Columbus day assembly program yesterday morning at the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school was given by Miss Elizabeth Martin's eighth grade pupils.

The program included an original skit, "A Day in 1900," presented by Belvia Osborne, Naomi Good, Harry Rice and Ben Swick. Florence Jones presided. The meeting opened with scripture reading by Martha Jenkins and a piano selection by Gladys Dawson.

NAVY RECRUITING STATION WILL OPEN

Officer Will Be at Postoffice Five Days a Week Starting Monday.

A permanent recruiting sub-station for the United States navy will be opened Monday at the postoffice, according to information received by Postmaster L. L. Lamborn. The move follows establishment of a temporary station here about two months ago with a recruiting officer coming here every other Friday.

Under the new system as announced by H. E. Trusler, recruiting officer in charge of the Lima sub-station which includes Marion county, a representative of the navy will be stationed here five days a week, Monday through Friday. The postal department has approved the use of offices in the basement of the postoffice opening to South State street.

A representative of the Marine corps was here Thursday at the postoffice to interview interested persons and to distribute information on that branch of the service.

The establishment of the permanent naval station here comes just as the navy is preparing to observe navy day which comes on Oct. 27.

NO INQUIRIES MADE ON SCHOOL BUDGET

Hearing Held Open for 15 Minutes on 1938 Financial Program.

A 15-minute public hearing on the city school budget for 1938 calling for $400,230 for operating expenses was held yesterday afternoon at the school administration building. The hearing was terminated at the end of 15 minutes because no one had appeared other than the clerk of the board of education, Frank C. Gegenheimer. The board was not present.

Mr. Gegenheimer said that since no objections had been raised by the public to the budget the board will give its final approval either at the Nov. 1 meeting or at a special meeting before then. It may be necessary to call a special meeting if County Auditor Harry V. Mounts and the county budget commission need the budget for drafting new tax rates before the school board's regular November meeting.

The 1938 budget which was given tentative approval by the school board on Oct. 4 calls for $28,250 more than was allowed for this year. The increase is due to pay restorations granted teachers this year, increased costs of the teachers' retirement system and the new service employs' retirement system. Last year the schools asked $396,428 or $4,002 less than this year, for operating expenses.

Setting The Stage.

THE MOST encouraging development in national affairs, rising hopefully through the confusion of surrounding issues, is the fact that President Roosevelt seems to be trying to set the stage for a balanced budget.

He has stressed in recent public speeches the necessity for a balanced budget. Evidently, he is trying to use his influence to create public demand for action. That demand, expressed through congress, is essential. Congressmen will vote for spending as long as they think it is popular.

New deal financial theory calls for liberal government spending to prime the financial pump for private business when its resources are depleted by depression. Government, in other words, draws on its "savings account"—its power to tax its citizens—when private enterprise must trim its financial sails to remain solvent.

But when private enterprise begins to regain its ability to spend money, government must restore its depleted savings. That means it must balance its books, which means, in turn, that it must balance the annual budget and apply the surplus to retiring the debt it has created.

There is a psychological moment to do this—a time when it must be done to maintain confidence in government's ability to build up a new reserve of taxing power against possibility of another depression. In the opinion of many financial experts, that psychological moment has come. President Roosevelt, evidently, agrees and intends to use his influence to keep his administration off the "rocks of a loose fiscal policy!"

This is the most important of all national problems; all the others hinge upon it.

Parental Responsibility

JUDGE GAST of the juvenile court calls upon parents to do their part in keeping their children on the right path. Concerned over the misdeeds of several boys brought before him in the last week he told the mothers and fathers to be informed on how the youngsters spend their leisure time.

Such instructions ought to be unnecessary, but even parents conscientious in performance of their duty fail short on this particular point occasionally, sometimes because they may get the mistaken idea that their children are not the sort likely to misbehave. There should be a relationship of trust and confidence, but not to the extent of giving the youngsters absolutely free rein. Leisure time requires watching probably more than any other, as Judge Gast has indicated. That is when not only children, but adults as well, are most likely to go astray.

It's not an easy undertaking, this matter of knowing what boys and girls are doing away from home or school, but as in the case of nearly all difficult tasks, the reward certainly pays well for all the effort and time required.

Just In Time.

THERE WAS danger that the Committee for Industrial Organization would hold its convention without finding any excuse to criticize the national labor relations board, which has been charged with being too friendly to John L. Lewis and his helpers. The board made that embarrassing situation unnecessary by a ruling unfavorable to a C. I. O. union—with a few days to spare.

So it is reassuring to know that the C. I. O. caught its cue and roundly criticized the labor board for "certain recent decisions" permitting development of craft unions supported by the American Federation of Labor when most of the affected employes favored vertical unionism.

This was a close one, with the same element of suspense that gets the audience fidgety when the hero walks into a room where the villain is standing behind a drape ready to kill him. Will—he—see—the—villian's — foot—in—time? Yes! Thank goodness that's over.

Premonition.

IMPROVEMENT HAS a way of sneaking up on its beneficiaries and victims. There's the matter of chugging locomotives, for instance.

One of these days, if designers aren't being too hopeful, locomotives won't clang any more. They will be equipped with steam motors providing a continuous flow of noiselessly generated power to the driving wheels. One railroad's already perfected such an engine.

Chances are this won't get much attention till some night an insomniac who has depended for years on the chug of a freight engine getting a loaded train rolling will become aware of a lull in his life. Suddenly, he will realize there's nothing but the whistle left to listen to while he's tossing restlessly on his mattress.

Then, too late, he'll tell the world, including the railroads, that he had a soft place in his heart for chugging and progress isn't worth the candle of his devotion to a noise which science has eliminated as useless and inefficient.

Dictators Concerned Only with Whether the Democracies Will Back Threats with War.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Walter Lippmann

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Less than 20 years ago the British and French were the masters of Europe, and along with the United States the three great Atlantic powers exercised an almost undisputed supremacy throughout the world. Today we are all of us driven from the Orient and in Europe Britain and France are uncertain whether they can still defend the vital links of their empires.

It is not very enlightening to ascribe this revolutionary change in the balance of power to the rise of the dictators. For the German and Italian dictatorships were conceived and created in the very period when the democracies were all-powerful in arms, in prestige, in commerce and in finance. The plain fact is that when the western democracies had supreme power they failed to conciliate the peoples of central Europe; and now that they no longer have supreme power, now that there have been raised against them formidable challengers, the democracies do not know whether they can face the risk of defending themselves.

From the armistice to the accession of Hitler, the western nations, including our own, abused their power by failing to be just and to be liberal. Since the accession of Hitler they have been unable to make concessions, and yet they have been afraid to resist the demands made upon them. Lacking magnanimity when they exercised supremacy, they now lack resolution when they are challenged.

What the democracies would like is to remain undisturbed in the enjoyment of all their possessions. They would like to keep what they have, not only their colonies and their dependencies, but also their monopolies and their preferences, and they would like never to have to defend what they have. Thus they can barely persuade themselves to make the relatively small concessions embodied in Secretary Hull's policies, and for the rest they would like to keep the world in order by reminding it that it would be as noble as it would be convenient for them if all treaties were habitually respected. They would like to placate the challengers by uttering fine sentiments and to overawe them by rhetorical threats.

But, whether we like it or not, the challenging powers are as realistic as they are ruthless. There is no way to satisfy them by promises and there is no way to combat them by making speeches. The challengers are prepared to fight for what they want; they are completely persuaded that they are entitled to have whatever they can take. So they are not to be put off by homilies, no matter who pronounces them, and they are much too shrewd and much too bold to be bluffed.

When, for example, they hear the President of the United States talk about a quarantine against treaty-breakers, they are impressed only in so far as they think he means to institute a quarantine, and to back it, if called upon, with the whole military power of the United States. They do not care about his language, however pleasing it may be to newspaper readers in London, Paris, Valencia, Moscow and Nanking. What they consider is whether he would really act, and when they find him hastening to promise the American voters that he will do nothing which involves the risk of war, the word "quarantine" has no present value and is merely stage-money.

Bent On Conquest

Since we cannot deceive the challengers, let us not deceive ourselves. We are living in a world in which great militarized nations are bent on conquest. The democracies are potentially stronger than the dictatorships, but they are softer, more self-indulgent, and more confused. They are unwilling to face the fact that in dealing with governments that are willing to fight, there is no form of influence which really counts unless it is backed by a willingness to fight.

Thus it is not only useless but dangerous to talk about sanctions and quarantines and other provocative measures unless that talk is founded on a willingness to face the final risk of war. There is no such thing as a half-way and half-hearted policy in the ultimate issues: there is no such thing as proposing to choke the Japanese, but not to strangle them. There is no way of threatening the Japanese if the threats are not meant seriously. There is no such thing as fighting the Japanese without fighting them.

Provocative talk without sincerity of purpose can end only in humiliation, in the exasperation of the challengers, and in providing them diplomatic triumphs which will increase their strategic power. Emerson used to say that when you strike at a king you must kill him. Germany, Italy and Japan will respect the western powers only in the degree to which they are convinced that there are definite points at which the western powers really mean to stand absolutely and to fight totally. If the militarized nations believe there is no such definite point, they cannot be threatened, bluffed or placated.

The heart of the problem of war and peace is whether the democracies really mean to resist or to surrender, and the policies of the dictatorships will be guided by what they believe is the real intention of the democracies. If the democracies really did mean to resist, and meant it so sincerely that no one could doubt it, they are still strong enough to restore order in the world, and then to achieve peace by making substantial concessions. But if the democracies do not mean to resist, then step by step, position by position, they will be pushed and maneuvered out of their place in the world and forced ever more deeply into a frightened and precarious isolation.

Special Session Seems To Be Step No. 1 in President's Program To Hold Farm Vote.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—What's the hurry about the extra session? Why couldn't farm legislation be taken up in January just as well? These questions have been asked quite often in the last few days since President Roosevelt announced that he would summon congress back here for November 15.

The ostensible answer and the one given officially by the administration is that the machinery of the new crop control law, which it is seeking to have passed, shall be in operation in time for the spring planting.

Quite a number of political observers, however, have figured it out that the real reason which the new deal has in its mind is to get the machinery of check giving in full operation so that the flow of funds to the voting precincts of the farm areas will be well under way by the summer months and in time for the congressional elections in the fall.

It is estimated that the administration needs about $500,000,000 a year to hold the farm vote in line, this sum having been spent on the average each year heretofore either for AAA or soil conservation or for the other schemes which the new deal uses to lure into the Republican strongholds of the farm states.

Mr. Roosevelt's political combination has been to invade the cities with labor policies and relief money and to win the country districts with farm subsidies. It isn't necessary from an administration standpoint to carry the farm districts by as big a vote as the cities but merely to make such a big dent in the Republican vote as to insure in 1938 a substantial majority of Democratic congressmen in both houses and by 1940 a sufficient majority to win the electoral college.

The President has not produced a farmer-labor alliance in the sense of a new party or combination which is consciously woven together in a political way, but he has managed to derive his major support from both the cities and the farm areas in bigger voting numbers than other Democratic presidents since the Civil war.

The Republicans for many years held the farm areas and the cities, too, but the Democrats in the past 30 years have gotten more and more of a foothold in the cities. Under the AAA plan of direct distribution of public funds the Democrats have definitely cut into the Republican vote in the agricultural states.

Statistics show that wherever the AAA funds were substantially allocated last year and in the years before, the results in the 1936 election gave Mr. Roosevelt a higher percentage than London whereas as the amounts of the AAA contributions declined the percentages of the vote obtained by the Democrats also declined.

This should not by any means be taken to mean that the farm areas are influenced improperly but merely that government paternalism has become a paramount factor in present day politics, and that the party in power derives a considerable political benefit nowadays from the fact that it possesses a machinery for the actual distribution of benefit checks direct to the voters.

In the last campaign the former AAA committees were a far better political organization than the Democratic national committee and managed to make more personal calls on beneficiaries than any openly political organization ever made.

Mr. Roosevelt wants to retain his majority in the next congress and even increase it. He has set out to get his task done and the special session is step number one in assuring him, if possible, of a larger farm vote than heretofore.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Oct. 16, 1927.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Gorden of Hane avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Quigley of Cincinnati, former Marion residents, were guests of friends and relatives here at a celebration of their thirty-second wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kauble entertained at a family dinner at their home on Cleveland avenue, celebrating the birthday anniversary of Mr. Kauble's sister, Mrs. C. D. Brown.

The Marion Eagles baseball team defeated the Tiffin All-Stars in a game played at Lincoln park in near-winter weather. The score was 6-4, with Good pitching for Marion.

Hugh Clement, former resident of LaRue, died in a hospital at Detroit.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hartman, 92, died at the John Eisele home near Agosta.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Oct. 16, 1917.

A news dispatch reported that London was protected nightly by a "curtain" of barrage fire designed to keep away raiding German airplanes. All four battle-fronts of Europe reported hard fighting. Chief interest, however, was directed toward the east where the Germans were engaging the Russians in a land and sea struggle upon which might depend the fate of Petrograd.

Rev. C. B. Runnalls, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, received a letter from Bishop Du-Moulian warning against the danger of the times in which "temples of God were being profaned by secular and commercial usage."

Announcement was made that a training course in electricity would be opened as a feature of the Y. M. C. A. night school with Theodore Berggrun, chief electrician at the Osgood Co., as instructor.

Mrs. Minetta Diebert received her commission from the state Daughters of American council for the office of deputy.

The Jolly Ten club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Sutton at their home on Lincoln avenue.

Big Job For Navy

We'd Need One Twice as Large as Japan's If We Fought in Orient, Experts Say.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Ask a competent navy officer if the United States navy theoretically could go over to the Orient and lick the Japanese navy and he will tell you:

"No."

That is an interesting sidelight on what the government's practical minds are thinking about when they talk of moral "suasion" in preference to sanctions and the like.

The nut of the business is that if the navy ever should go 8,000 miles across the Pacific to fight a war, it would have to outnumber the enemy two to one. And by terms of the old, now repudiated, naval limitations treaty, the United States agreed not to build a navy twice as strong as Japan's. That was intended to make the Japanese feel safer.

Thus the ratio was 5-5-3, or five units of naval power for Great Britain, five for the United States and three for Japan. Neither the British nor the United States navy under that arrangement had enough fighting power to upset Japan in its own waters. That was the security Japan sought.

The Present Lineup

Actually the relationship of these three powers is not vastly different now, even though the treaty has been repudiated by Japan and maintained only in a very hazy form by the United States and Great Britain. But the British building program will make it very different—when and if completed—and the two fancy-dress battleships ordered by the United States at $60,000,000 each probably will give the United States a greater theoretical edge over Japan than it had before, although Japan is building also.

| | U.S. | G.B. | Japan |
|---|---|---|---|
| Battleships | 15 | 15 | 9 |
| Aircraft Carriers | 3 | 6 | 4 |
| Cruisers | 26 | 53 | 32 |
| Destroyers | 183 | 174 | 94 |
| Submarines | 76 | 51 | 53 |

In addition, the United States is building 2 new battleships, 3 aircraft carriers, 11 cruisers, 61 destroyers and 18 submarines. Great Britain is building 2 battleships, 3 aircraft carriers, 16 cruisers, 34 destroyers and 14 submarines.

Japan is building 2 aircraft carriers, 4 cruisers, 18 destroyers and 7 submarines.

British and United States submarines and destroyers are mostly old; Japan's are mostly new. All the battleships are old in years but repeatedly modernized.

Far, Far Away

The nearest naval base to Japan in which United States ships could be reconditioned and repaired during a war is Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, some 5,000 miles from Tokyo. The Philippine independence act gave the United States the right to establish a naval station there, but nothing has ever been done about it.

The cost of a naval invasion of the Orient would be totaled in box-car numbers.

A Series of Firsts.

The first monument to George Washington, first president of the United States, was built in the first county to be named after him, Washington county, Md.

When President Roosevelt attended the 75th anniversary and reenactment of the Battle of Antietam near Hagerstown, Sept. 17, he was the first president of the United States to visit the monument officially.

It has been restored after more than a century of obscurity and neglect and now stands, floodlighted, atop the "blue rocks" of South Mountain, Boonsboro, Maryland, and is visible for many miles on the old national trail, U. S. route 40.

On July 4, 1827, Boonsboro residents, among them many Revolutionary musketmen, were resolved to build a suitable tribute in stone to George Washington. They chose the highest point in the heart of Maryland and within 24 hours had completed a monument of loose stone.

The elements did heavy damage to it. After use in the Battle of Antietam as a signal tower, the monument was restored by a private citizen named Dahlgren, but by 1862 it was in ruins again, apparently having been struck by lightning. The Oddfellows lodge of Boonsboro restored it that year, adding a base and a canopy.

About the year 1900 it was damaged, legend says, by an angry father who sought to destroy the trysting place of his daughters and remained in ruins for 35 years. Restoration this time promises to be permanent.

Life Comes First.

Eugene Lyons, for many years newspaper correspondent in Moscow, writes in a new book "Assignment in Utopia:"

"The moral collapse of Europe is far more terrible than its economic collapse. It could not be claimed that the contempt for men and women as such derives from the philosophy of Hitlerism or fascism or communism, since that is their common element. Precisely the reverse seemed to be the case: these philosophies all radiated from a common center. Until the dignity of life, the importance of human happiness, a respect for truth, and a horror of slavery under any guise are restored as motivating ideals, if not as functioning realities, the economic or racial or national Utopias will remain inhuman monstrosities.

"I am convinced that any philosophy of human progress which does not rest uncompromisingly on respect for life, no matter how honest its original intentions, becomes brutalized and defeats its own professed purposes."

Love is not altogether a delirium, yet it has many points in common therewith. I call it rather a discerning of the infinite in the finite—of the ideal made real.—Carlyle.

No Backward Step

(From the New York Sun.)

PROFESSOR Boris A. Bakhmeteff's address at the opening exercises of Columbia University's academic year carried a message of hope despite a recurrent note of pessimism. seems to believe humanity can improve its conditions if it so wills, that the way lies in replacing materialism with "a new set of values, human and spiritual."

Professor Bakhmeteff said that "under the strain of competition and with the doors wide open for accumulation of wealth, life has become dominated largely by material motives, yet "it does not lie in the natural course of humanity to deprive itself of the advantages gained by modern civilization, and to embark on deliberate retrogression." He would scrap machinery to gain the better world that is attainable. He believes, on the contrary, that "social betterment is primarily dependent upon the progress in average human productivity."

As Professor Bakhmeteff teaches civil engineering, it would be astonishing were he to advocate the curbing of inventions, right control of the output of goods and the complete destruction of all forms of competition. Machinery is not the cause of competition. To blame technology for the ills of humanity is to confuse cause and effect.

Not long ago the National Resources Committee of the Roosevelt administration proposed a new federal agency to forecast changes that occur in national life as a result of inventions. The committee appears to believe that by keeping an eye on the patent office and observing the latest developments in mechanical and chemical technology it may be possible to form new policies and anticipate the effect of invention on the social system. In the September Survey Graphic appears comment on this report of the National Resources Committee. It is recalled, for instance, that in October, 1920, one of the scientific journals carried an article on future developments, but failed to mention radio broadcasting or talking motion pictures. The real hazard of setting up a federal board to watch the course of invention would lie in its steps to control the unchecked improvement of all kinds of inventions.

Professor Bakhmeteff deplored what he considers a loss of faith in liberty, and of the readiness to protect and defend it. Liberty, he said, "has ceased to be the beacon of the oppressed and suffering humanity," and he went on to assert that "in the social field the free economic order built on liberty so far has ripened into solid contentment growing into a spreading abundance and security. . . . utopian dreams have resolved themselves into omnipotent bureaucracies . . ." What is now be the state of this country, had a governmental board had controlled the development of the motor car, the telegraph, the telephone, oil heating, electric lighting, the typewriter, the reaper and the vast number of other discoveries and tools that shared human ills and cure human ills? Liberty is still the hope for the oppressed.

Today in Ohio History

Many people believe that when John Brown made his famous raid at Harper's Ferry, Virginia, Oct. 16, 1859, he was carrying out a plan which had been carefully laid in Ohio.

Brown had lived in this state and had Ohioans associated with him in his anti-slavery activities. One of these, who was executed beside Brown, was Edwin Coppock who was the son of Quaker parents near Salem, Columbiana county, O. Two days before his death he wrote a letter to an uncle expressing the belief that his death would hasten the end of slavery. His body was buried in Hopedale cemetery at Salem.

RURAL ROUTES ARE CHANGED

Abandoned Now To Be Served from Marion and Caledonia.

Abandonment of Martel rural route and transfer of its boxholders to Marion route No. 1 and Caledonia routes is effective today, Postmaster L. L. Lamborn announced. The change is the latest step in the postal department's plan of increasing the length of rural routes throughout the county, he said.

Changes are made only when they can be effected without loss of employment for any carrier. The present change is the result of transfer of a Caledonia carrier to Crestline. The Martel carrier has been transferred to a Caledonia route. The bulk of the Martel boxholders were added to the Caledonia routes.

The change adds eight miles to Marion Route No. 1 east and southeast of Kirkpatrick, making the new length about 48 miles, Mr. Lamborn said. Rural routes were set up in the days of horses and buggies at about 20 miles each, Mr. Lamborn explained. The department hopes eventually by consolidation to build up routes to as much as 70 miles each, the largest in the county now being 54 miles.

There are now 16 in the county, seven from Marion, two each from Prospect, LaRue and Caledonia, and one each from Agosta, Morral and Waldo, covering 300 miles in all.

Boxholders added to Marion Route No. 1 follow: B. O. Slagle, M. H. Moreland, A. McDougal, C. E. Weir, H. A. Mason, P. M. Foos, E. F. Rorick, S. A. Longacre, D. B. Winters, M. G. ## CIVICS CLASS AT AGOSTA ORGANIZES

Pupils of the civics class of the Agosta high school organized Thursday and outlined a program of projects. The following officers were elected: Donna James, president; Isabel Bauer, vice president; Frances Seiter, secretary; Robert Kinsler, news reporter. The slogan, "A Better Community Through Cooperation," was adopted.

Projects will include individual notebooks, clippings for the class bulletin board, scrapbooks of clippings and a "clean up" week in the spring. The president appointed the following committees: Motto, Marion Carey and Isabell Bauer; bulletin board for October, Eleanor Grant and Kathryn Drake; scrapbook, Margaret Bauer and Eleanor Grant. Business meetings will be held at the beginning of the class period on Tuesday of each week.

NURSES OF DISTRICT SET DATE FOR DANCE

Saturday, Oct. 23 has been set as the date for a benefit dance to be held at the Marion Country club by members of District No. 7 of the Ohio State Nurses' association, composed of Marion, Delaware, Wyandot, Crawford and Union counties.

Miss Eleanor Stanley is in charge of the committee handling arrangements, which includes Miss Louise Halbedel, Miss Loretta, Winters, Miss Dorothy Regan, Miss Frances Navin and Miss Helen Roth. Proceeds will be used to carry on district activity during the winter.

Bob McMahan's orchestra will furnish music for the dance. Nurses from throughout the five counties in the district are cooperating.

HARDIN ELECTION BOOKS CHECKED

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 16—J. A. Welker, an investigator for the office of Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, today had in his possession several poll books used in Hardin county.

Mr. Welker said the books would be basis of a routine check and that if findings warrant, a complete investigation of election practices in this county will be made. Requests for an investigation were filed by B. F. McCloud, secretary of the Hardin county Republican executive committee, and by David Sousley of Ada, a Democrat, both of whom alleged malpractices.

CARRIES FULL SINCLAIR LINE

Handles Marion Made Heaters, Radios and Covered Wagon Trailers.

The automobile of today represents the finest in engineering skill. The different manufacturers vie with one another in offering to the buying public the best in engineering operation, comfort of riding and body lines pleasing to the eye.

The appreciative owner is mindful of the fact—a precision made car such as he owns and drives, is worthy of precise and intelligent care. This care is the responsibility he lays in the lap of the automobile service man.

The up-to-date service station operator must realize that in order to render this exacting service he must have the following:

1—Proper mechanical equipment—pressure guns, etc.

2—Proper oils and greases for all cars.

3—Manufacturers' recommendations for specification sheets for all cars.

4—Intelligent and competent service men.

All these qualifications are met by N. J. Riemar's Sinclair Service station at South Main and Columbia streets. The public is invited to personally inspect the service equipment of the Riemar station which includes the latest in pressure-vacuum devices which quickly and positively lubricate. This equipment is used by men who are thoroughly trained in its operation as well as in the proper oils and greases for each wearing part. All lubricants are applied under specifications approved by the manufacturers of the car on which they are working.

In servicing a car attendants at the Riemar station follow a definite routine. With the season of winter driving at hand they make a number of recommendations that, if followed, will assure pleasant motoring during the cold months.

1—Oil Changing.

Oil changing is essential for several reasons. When temperatures around the freezing point are consistently encountered crankcase temperatures are abnormally low. Under such conditions the oil may become dangerously diluted with unburned gasoline and water from moisture condensation. For this reason regular changing of oil is highly essential.

2—Oil filters.

A sadly neglected part of too many automobile motors is the oil filter. It should be remembered that the job of filtering impurities from the crankcase lubricant rests with this small but highly important gadget. To lessen the work of the filter the crankcase should be flushed free of settlings and sludge frequently. The filter itself should be renewed at regular periods.

3—Spark plugs.

Of course while working under the hood of the car the station attendant should investigate the condition of the spark plugs, replacing any that are defective and cleaning and regapping any that are in need of attention.

4—Radiator service.

Radiators which have accumulated sludge or rust which might impair the free circulation of water through the cooling system should be flushed and cleaned and the connections tested for leaks before putting in the anti-freeze.

5—Anti-freeze.

The kind of anti-freeze a motorist will use for radiator protection during the winter is a matter of personal choice. The Riemar station carries a line to meet the needs of any car owner. It includes Prestone, Sinclair anti-freeze and Sinclair Super anti-freeze.

6—Chassis lubrication.

The right amount of the right lubricant in the right place with the right gun in the right way at the right mileage! This is the principle on which attendants at the Riemar station take care of this important phase of automobile servicing.

7—Transmission and differential lubricant change.

At the Riemar station differentials and transmissions are drained and flushed with pressure-vacuum guns and the right amount of the proper lubricant added for cold weather driving. Because of the adoption of hypoid gears in many of the new model cars the task of changing the differential lubricant has become more important and complicated than heretofore. Knowledge of the proper gear oil is of great importance.

8—Wheel lubrication.

This is a regular feature of the winter Specialize service program.

9—Battery inspection and service.

When this operation is ended the major part of a motorist's winter preparation program is complete. The Riemar station carries a line of Goodyear batteries and maintains a charging service.

In addition to gasoline sales and lubrication service, for which a full line of Sinclair products is carried, the Riemar station also handles a number of important accessories. One of these is the Goodyear hot water heater, a Marion product made by the Defiance Pressed Steel Co.

Some of the models employ a new method of heat distribution, drawing the air through the radiator instead of blowing it through. They are fitted with defrosting vents that deliver a constant air supply to the windshield without an extra motor.

Goodyear tires and tubes and R. C. A. auto radios are among other items. Radio service also is available at the station.

With a constant increase in popularity of the automobile house trailers the Riemar station has taken the agency for the Covered Wagon. Models are on display for inspection at the station.

SUPERIOR ROOFING COMPANY MOVES

The Superior Roofing Co., headed by A. L. Kessler of South High street, has moved its offices from 150 North State street to 456 West Center street. The company has been in Marion for the last 12 years and is the oldest appliers of asphalt roofing in north Central Ohio. The new telephone number is 2925.

BUICK COILS ITS REAR SPRINGS

COIL SPRING rear suspension, one of the major automotive developments of the year has been pioneered by Buick on all four lines of cars for 1938. A feature exclusive to this make, rear coil suspension combines with airplane type shock absorbers to provide greatly improved riding and steering qualities. Photo shows the spring and shock absorber hook-up on the left rear wheel of the 1938 Buick chassis.

Hardware Need Not Be Costly For Use In Low-Cost House

The finish hardware in a house—the door knobs, hinges, etc.—vary greatly in price and appearance, and while expensive hardware is very nice and should be included in an expensive house, it would be foolish to spend a lot for this item in a house where every penny counts. Of course, very cheap locks are not good economy, because they will not last, but a lock with good mechanism and inexpensive finish is satisfactory in houses of small or moderate cost.

Interior door hinges or butts, as they are known in the trade, need not be of solid brass but may be of iron or steel which can be painted the same color as the doors. These iron butts are well made and quite inexpensive and, in the opinion of some authorities, look even better than the more conspicuous brass ones.

For interior doors there are lock sets that require no keys, and while these are slightly more expensive than the ordinary type, they require less labor to install, and where skilled labor is high they are no more expensive in place than the usual type locks. They can be locked and unlocked by pressing a button in the center of the handle.

Door knobs, if possible, should be of solid brass, or glass or china. The plated knobs, while they make a good appearance, are apt to get shabby with long use. China knobs are quite inexpensive and easily kept clean.

Outside hardware should be of noncorrosive metal, as it must stand the weather, and if rust sets in, the wood to which it is fastened will be badly discolored.

PAINTED FLOORS.

In refinishing old houses, a return to the old type of painted floor is being noticed. In many cases the owner doesn't wish to go to the expense of laying a new floor, and the old one can be satisfactorily scraped, cracks filled, and painted with a good quality paint. Dark red, black or yellow are once again the favorites for this type of finish.

Heating Is Speciality of Self Plumbing Shop

With the fall and winter season here Thurman Self, plumbing and heating contractor of 146 North State street is in a position to offer prompt service in the repair and installation of all types of heating equipment. He handles the Weil-McLain line of hot water heating equipment and also installs and services hot air furnaces.

A building heated with Weil-McLain boilers and radiators has an even temperature in every room due to the arrangement for forcing circulation to any part of the building, thus doing away with cold rooms and chilly corners. Because of this feature heat from radiators through which circulate hot water, vapor or steam is economical.

Another advantage of this type of heating equipment is that room temperatures are not affected by varying winds as the circulating of the heating element through the pipes and radiators is not influenced by outside air currents.

Most radiator installation now is in recesses in the walls, according to Mr. Self, thus leaving unobstructed all floor space.

Another item handled by the Self firm that is meeting with exceptional approval by suburban and farm residents is the Deming electric water systems manufactured by the nationally-known pump makers. They are the ideal arrangement for homes where city water systems are not available. The outfits are available in sizes that will pump from 250 to 3,000 gallons of water an hour.

The Deming water systems bring one of the greatest conveniences of the city to the rural areas for they provide running water in any part of the house or the barn, make possible a bathroom.

In the way of plumbing the Self shop offers a complete service in both new installation and repair. A complete line of standard plumbing fixtures is carried all of which can be installed with copper piping that resists corrosion and lasts a lifetime.

COLOR ATTRACTS CHILD.

In the decoration of children's rooms it is well to remember that only the strong intense colors make an impression on minds not ready to receive the subtler gradations of color. Green trimmed with red, or blue with orange, are pleasing to a child.

NATIVE BRICK.

In selecting the brick for a house, choose a type that is native to the country, if possible. Climatic conditions affect bricks materially, and better results will generally result by following this practice.

Two way service is provided for offices by a new desk telephone that takes up less space than the usual instruments.

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN—MARION THEATER PROGRAMS

"The Prisoner of Zenda" Comes To Palace Screen

Anthony Hope's Swashbuckling Tale of Intrigue and Adventure Booked Here.

Anthony Hope's swashbuckling tale of love, intrigue and adventure in the courts of Europe, "The Prisoner of Zenda," starring one of the screen's most finished actors, Ronald Colman, will be on the Palace screen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. head the supporting cast which includes such accomplished players as Raymond Massey, C. Aubrey Smith, Mary Astor and David Niven. The picture was made by the producer of the hit, "A Star Is Born."

Colman plays the dual role of the adventurous Rudolf Rassendyll and the roistering King Rudolf V whom he resembles so closely. When the agents of the king's brother, who is plotting to seize the throne, render the king incapable of attending his own coronation, a loyal subject enlists Rassendyll to impersonate the king. He does so well that he deceives even the king's betrothed, Miss Carroll, and the two fall madly in love. Therein is the situation from which develops the plot of the romantic adventure.

Nearly 10,000 properties, including hundreds of the world's treasures in antiques and museum pieces, many of them priceless, were supplied by the studio property department for dressing the various sets. Sixty-two sets, ranging in size from a sentry-box to a huge cathedral and two castles, were constructed. The largest set, the grand ballroom of Strelsau castle, with a staircase of 36 risers, a dance floor of 10,000 square feet of white enameled plywood, was 60 feet wide and 230 feet long.

The Wednesday picture will be a light romance, "Here's Flash Casey," featuring Eric Linden and Boots Mallory.

Marlene Dietrich and Robert Donat are the stars of the Thursday-Friday picture, "Knight Without Armor," made from the novel by James Hilton who authered "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and "Lost Horizon."

The picture was made in England. Miss Dietrich plays a Russian countess and Donat has the role of a young English secret service agent posing as a revolutionary. Caught in the toils of the revolution, she is sent under his escort to Petrograd for questioning. Ingenious disguises and subterfuges save her from the hands of the Reds and romance develops which ultimately brings the story to a happy conclusion.

A cast of almost 5,000 persons took part in the making of "High, Wide and Handsome," the Irene Dunne-Randolph Scott starring picture which will open Friday.

The story concerns itself with the romance of Miss Dunne, a carnival singer, and Scott, a Pennsylvania farmer with vision. The love story is set in the days of the first American oil boom, which took place in Titusville, Pa., in 1859.

The film was directed by Rouben Mamoulian and contains a supporting cast including Dorothy Lamour, Ben Blue, William Frawley, Raymond Walburn and Charles Bickford.

A Robert Benchley short, "How to Start the Day," and a travel short, "Glimpses of Peru," will be shown on the same bill.

MUSIC COMEDY ON OHIO BILL

"Varsity Show" With Dick Powell and Fred Waring Band Coming.

"Varsity Show," a musical comedy along new lines, opened at the Ohio yesterday to remain through Thursday. Jane Withers' new picture, "Wild and Woolly," will open on Friday.

A star individual, Dick Powell, and a star organization, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, top the cast of "Varsity Show."

It is the story of how the undergraduates of a little freshwater educational institution try to put on a show under the supervision of a dignified and gloomy professor, only to realize that he's ruining it with his highbrow notions.

They go to the city and dig up Powell, a graduate, who has become successful as a Broadway producer, and induce him to return to school and supervise a real show. Powell and his partner, the slightly goofy Ted Healy, take over the job and after many a battle between the modern and old-fogey elements in the school, a show is put on.

Fred Waring and his some 50 bandsmen form the college band and Buck and Bubbles have roles as singing and dancing janitors of the school.

Rosemary Lane is Powell's feminine interest and her sister, Priscilla, is one of the adept dancers. The finale of the show, devised and directed by Busby Berkeley, shows no less than 200 girls and 200 boys in a stage-filling routine.

"Have You Got Any Castles, Baby?" "Love Is on the Air Tonight" and "Old King Cole" are three of the 10 numbers in the show.

The new Withers picture will be shown four days, through Monday.

Walter Brennan, last year's academy award winner for the best performance by an actor in a supporting role, heads the cast which includes Pauline Moore, Carl "Alfalfa" Switzer of the Our Gang comedy kids, Jack Searl, Berton Churchill, Douglas Fowley, Robert Wilcox and Douglas Scott.

Chief Standing Bear, a Hollywood extra, met Jane on the set of "Wild and Woolly" and as a gesture of friendship to the young star, taught her a little of the redman's sign language. Jane goes a bit Indian-ish in this picture, riding and roping in several sequences.

Supplied with current from a light socket, a portable tool has been invented in Germany for planing heavy timbers.

"PRISONER OF ZENDA" COMING TO PALACE

Ronald Colman is impersonating Madeleine Carroll's betrothed in this scene from "The Prisoner of Zenda," the production of the famous Anthony Hope romance which will be at the Palace Sunday through Tuesday.

POPULAR MUSICAL FILM ON AT STATE

"New Faces of 1937" Booked for Return Showing at Start of Week.

"New Faces of 1937," one of the season's first musical shows, with Joe Penner, Milton Berle, Parkyakarkus and Harriet Hilliard will return to the State Sunday and Monday on a bill with "The Case of the Velvet Claws," featuring Warren William and Claire Dodd. The musical show has several romances, a running feud between Penner and Parkyakarkus, and a story of the exposing of an unscrupulous Broadway producer who makes a handsome living by deliberately putting on worthless shows. "The Case of the Velvet Claws" is another of William's Perry Mason, attorney-detective stories in which the sleuth unravels another deep mystery involving a murder.

The screen play, "We're On the Jury," made from the stage play, "Ladies of the Jury," will return Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture co-stars Helen Broderick and Victor Moore. Miss Broderick has the role of a lady of social prominence serving on her first jury, a lady with a mind of her own. What she does to normal court proceedings, ably abetted by Mr. Moore, proves upsetting to the judge and trial attorneys, but provides numerous comedy moments. On the same bill will be a John Wayne western, "California Straight Ahead."

An entertaining romantic comedy, "History Is Made at Night," starring Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur, will return on the Thursday - Saturday program, which will include a Charles Starrett action picture, "Two-Gun Law." Leo Carrillo, in a supporting role in "History Is Made at Night," steals the show from the stars with his characteriation of an internationally famous chef. Boyer has the role of a dashing man-about-town and the most popular head waiter on the continent. Miss Arthur, estranged from her husband, the late Colin Clive, meets Boyer in Paris and the romance carries them from France to America against a series of ultra-modern settings, including a crack luxury liner and the smartest restaurants in New York and Paris.

Hollywood Art Can Not Seduce Menuhin's Fiddle

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16—Hollywood is good enough for some musicians—but for Menuhin, no, no, no.

Until filmland "recognizes a new field of pure music," said Moshe Menuhin, father and manager of violinist Yehudi Menuhin, today, "no pottage of gold will buy his art."

A studio is reported trying to bring 20-year-old Yehudi and his Stradivarius to the screen.

"Menuhin and today's Hollywood are two different and irreconcilable worlds," read a statement issued by the elder Menuhin. The thought of film work "shocked and bewildered" the Menuhins, the statement declared, adding:

"Between Yehudi Menuhin's musical art and Hollywood, as it is constituted today, there is an abyss that can not be bridged. The pure, simple, intergal and complete art of Mozart, Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Brahms, and Hollywood's motion picture synthetic, commercial, made-to-order are, two different, irreconcilable worlds, which no fakir, no money, and no white-washing can get together.

MARION BOOKS FAMILY AFFAIR

Barrymore Heads Cast of Picture Coming to Marion Theater.

A [illegible] picture in keeping with the title, "A Family Affair," featuring a cast headed by [illegible] Barrymore, Cecelia Parker, Lionel Atwill and Fay Holden, will return to the Marion Sunday and Monday. The picture has been shown previously at the Palace theater and was well received. It is the Mr. Wilderness" type of family drama with a huge [illegible] project in Idaho as the background. A thriller, "Western Limited," featuring Lyle Talbot and Polly Rowles will be on the same bill. Talbot, station agent, is disgraced when fighting off holdup bandits he allows a passenger train to pass a switch and go to destruction. He has no witness to prove that he was helpless to prevent the accident. Convicted of criminal negligence, he escapes from prison guards and becomes a fugitive. Months later he is befriended by Miss Rowles and earns the favor of Henry Brandon who loves her. Learning Talbot is a fugitive, Brandon arranges for his arrest. When a passenger train is in danger of destruction, Talbot faces imprisonment to save it and thus brings about a happy ending.

"Champagne Waltz," the silver screen attraction of one of the Major studios, will return Tuesday and Wednesday on a bill with a Jimmy Mack Brown western, "Foothill Brigade." Gladys Swarthout and Fred MacMurray are starred in "Champagne Waltz," a tuneful romance laid in Vienna, home of the world's waltz music. MacMurray and his American swing band ruin business at the waltz palace of Miss Swarthout's grandfather and she retaliates by going to America and opening a waltz palace which becomes a rage. In the course of true love she and MacMurray are brought together again and they combine swing and waltz music to make the dance palace a sensation. Jack Oakie has a comedy role and the cast includes Veloz and Yolanda, famous dance team, Herman Bing, Vivienne Osborne and Benny Baker.

The Thursday-Saturday program will be "Jim Hanvey, Detective," and a Buck Jones action picture, "Black Aces." In the former picture Guy Kibbee heads a cast which includes Tom Brown, Lucie Kaye, Catharine Doucet and Edward S. Brophy. The original story was written by Octavus Roy Cohen, with Kibbee in the role of an old, genial, unpretentious but shrewd detective. He takes original and novel means to trail and trap the crooks who steal a $100,000 emerald necklace from a wealthy matron, played by Miss Doucet.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, pays considerable attention to Nina.

David, a young auto salesman, has begun to adore Nina.

Cordelia is Nina's closest friend.

CHAPTER TWELVE
Hunting-Eve at Harmony

THAT night in the Capitol, they were munching popcorn out of a rustler paper bag—much to the disgust of some haughty neighbor.

"If I can wangle a car," he whispered, "would you drive down into the wilds of Long Island with me Sunday? Long Beech is fun in the winter, windy and deserted. We might find some jooweiry in the sand."

"Oh, dear," she whispered back, "I wish I could, but I'm already dated to spend the week-end there . . . not at Long Beach, but Long Island. I'm sorry. I'm hunting, Saturday, with the Jonestown Hunt."

He managed to look properly crestfallen, even with his cheeks bulging with popcorn. "I'm delivering a car down that way, on Saturday. Maybe I'll run across you in all your glory . . . fact I'll cruise about looking for you. Will you wave to a poor landlubber, Nina?"

At her door, he said: "One of these days I'm going to kiss you, Nina. Pretty soon . . . one of these days."

She hoped that when he did, it would do something tremendous to her . . . but she was dreadfully afraid it wouldn't.

"Is that a promise, David?"

"I'm glad you didn't call it a threat. Yes, my dear, you can count on me."

"Goodnight, then, and thank you for the loge seats."

He was looking at her with a look that was both hungry, devouring . . . and awed and adoring.

"What? . . . Er, oh, yes. Goodnight, Nina."

Nice David.

Richard and Honey, with their arms entwined, were just going up the stairs.

"That red-headed chap again, eh, Nina? Now what kind of a swain is that, who doesn't even make a move to kiss his girl goodnight?"

Honey looked up at him, worshipfully.

"There was certainly nothing backward about your tactics, darling, thank heaven!"

"Come here, Nina. I'll finish that young man's job for him . . ." and Honey stood back, laughing, as Richard kissed her daughter, slowly on the lips.

Nina was to spend the week-end with the Semples. They had been friends of the family since long before Mr. Stafford's death.

She went down Friday afternoon so as to be able to hunt with Carl on Saturday. Carl lived and breathed horses. He thought like a horse—taking up one thing at a time; and he attributed a good many lucky escapes in his life to his horse-sense.

He was a big, bluff, hearty man of 40, or thereabout. All the routine things were said about his being a centaur . . . part of his horse, and all that. The fact was, he liked horses. It was pretty clear after you'd known him five minutes.

Hester Semple . . . beautiful, dark Hester . . . well, she was very different.

When Nina got off the train, a smart young groom in a whipcord livery raised two fingers to his cap.

"The cart from Harmony, miss," he said, and led her to a high dog-cart with huge yellow wheels.

Carl had cars, three of them, but it was part of the tradition at Harmony that they were only used at night, or in the rain.

They set off down the main road at a smart clip, and presently swerved off into a dirt lane. After a mile or so, they made a right turn and drove between high entrance gates into an avenue of oaks and dogwood and natural undergrowth. They were bare, and a little gloomy looking now, but from past years, Nina knew their glory in the springtime.

Then, suddenly, they were in full view of the great, familiar Georgian house; the two-story entrance porch, with its slender, fluted columns, and carved Corinthian capitals; the lovely entrance door, with its fine palladian windows above; its two long, low wings with a glimpse of boxwood off to the left above the brick wall that enclosed the garden . . . the magnificent copper beeches and the two old holly trees on either side of the entrance . . . Nina drank it all in.

A slender figure in rose appeared in the doorway.

"Welcome back to Harmony, Nine," said Hester Semple, quietly, as her guest alighted. "It's been a good many weeks since we've had the pleasure of a visit from you."

Nina said, "It's simply grand to be here, Hester," but she thought: "What a formal, prepared, little speech!" And then she thought: "What a beauty!"

Hester's hair was a black as a raven's wing. She wore it parted in the middle and drawn back over the tops of her ears to a heavy coil at the nape of her neck. Her eyes were gray, and quite tragic looking when you caught her off guard. The rest of the time, the most you could say for them was that they were expressionless.

They entered the square hall, which fulfilled the exterior promise of spaciousness. Twin stairways curved upward toward the two wings. On a long, walnut table, a pot of early poinsettias bloomed brightly against the white panelled walls.

Nina could remember back to before Carl's marriage, when she had visited here with daddy, as a little girl. The long walnut table had been a tangle of crops, hats, gloves and muddied overcoats in those pre-Hester days. And there had been dogs about—all shapes and sizes; and pipes, and a pleasant smell of saddle soap and leather.

All that was different now. Carl let Hester do anything she liked with the house, so long as he had his horses. Nina and daddy had always thought that if Hester had had her way, the horses would have been dispensed with, along with the mess on the hall table. Her aversion to horses and all things pertaining to them amounted to a mania, almost. Nina wondered how she could stand the atmosphere . . . how she could have chosen to live in it, in the first place.

Sweet Music For The Maryland

When Nina came into th great living room, after she had bathed and changed into a simple black dinner dress, Hester rose, punctiliously, and greeted her with a smile . . . a beautiful smile, revealing even, white teeth—not about as warming as a winter twilight.

Not so, Carl's hearty welcome. "Well, by heaven, youngster. You're a sight for sore eyes! Sorry I wasn't here this afternoon, but Close Harmony strained a ligament and I was down seeing to her."

A big, spare, handsome man—Carl, with a great shock of coarse, tawny hair, that was turning prematurely gray, and a healthy, ruddy complexion. When he talked, he fairly boomed. People invariably stopped and listened, when he began.

"I've a fine mare for you tomorrow, youngster . . . GrayDawn, out of Dawn Cloud. She'll carry you better than anything you found down at Warrenton this autumn. Remember how your father and old Dawn Cloud used to get along?"

"Of course I do." Nina was a good horsewoman. In more affluent days the Staffords had kept saddle horses at the riding club in town; and Nina had hunted with her father in Yorkshire, England—and in the south, Warrenton and the Harford country—and, of course, here, with Carl Semple. "I hear you're considering Sweet Music for the Maryland . . . that domineering animal."

Carl laughed.

"Oh, he has his bad days, but who hasn't?"

"Well, you know how to handle him, if any one does," Nina admitted. "But Lord! Twenty-two fences with that chance-y jumper!" She shook her head. She had had occasion to watch Sweet Music when he was decidedly off pitch.

"There's only one jump on the whole course that might bother him—the second. Remember it, Nina? A stiff post and rail under trees . . . Trees bother him."

Hester turned away. It was impossible to say that she had paled, for there was never the slightest vestige of color in her cheeks, but a sort of numb look spread over her features, as it always did, at the hint of any accident.

Nina changed the subject.

She didn't want to mention Richard, or even think of him, but she had'nt seen the Semples alone since her mothers' marriage, and she knew it would seem unnatural if she didn't speak of it.

So "Now then, you two, what do you think of my little Honey stepping out and getting herself married?"

Carl boomed out his opinions for both of them, as usual. He thought a lot, apparently, but chiefly that it was a grand thing, and Richard, having shown a keen apreciation of horse flesh, was aces with him.

CALEDONIA WOMAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Minnie H. Underwood Succumbs to Heart Attack.

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, Oct. 16 — Mrs. Minnie Harrison Underwood, 62, wife of Charles G. Underwood a life long resident of Caledonia, died suddenly at 4:30 p. m. yesterday at her home here of a heart attack. Mrs. Underwood was born in Caledonia May 24, 1875, the daughter of M. R. Harrison and Malinda White Harrison both natives of Caledonia. She was married to Charles G. Underwood Dec. 25, 1895. She was a member of Memorial M. E. church where she has been organist since the church was built 28 years ago and she served as pianist in the old church for over 12 years.

Surviving with the husband are two children, Miss Margaret Underwood of Cleveland and Howard Underwood of Huston, Texas; one grandchild and one brother Charles R. Harrison of Marion. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the home and at 2:30 at the Memorial M. E. church with Rev. G. A. Hickson in charge. Burial will be in Caledonia cemetery. Friends may call at the home after 9 a. m. Sunday.

The Stars Say--
For Sunday, Oct. 17

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE emphasizes the conventional activities of the Sabbath with spiritual, religious and social or sentimental functions claiming the attention. An element of intrigue or secrecy pervades and actuates these purely private affiliations, perhaps expressing itself in clandestine love affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of excellent opportunity for furthering the interests and enlarging the fortunes, although secrecy and intrigue may be factors in such objectives. Secret agreements or diplomacy may be advantageous. Journeys or changes may be called for.

A child born on this day may be versatile, farseeing and ambitious, with great depths and ambitions of feeling, emotion and idealism as undercurrent to an unique purpose or humane service.

For Monday, Oct. 18

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of agitation and commotion, probably in setting the wheels in motion for new adventures. These obstructions require strenuous and aggressive action, but too impetuous or reckless use of force might prove perilous and cause enmity.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of abrupt and radical upheaval that may take them to fresh fields and in pursuit of wholly new objectives. While determination, force and energy may be necessary to break away from certain static conditions to grasp new opportunities, yet excitement, impetuosity and rashness would prove perilous.

A child born on this day may venturous, although practical, be energetic, powerful and adventurous, although practical, constructive and shrewd. Its aggressive nature may invite jealous opposition and enmity.

DONALD GAMBLE NEW GRANGE HEAD

Donald Gamble was elected master of the Union county Pomona grange at a meeting Thursday night at the Mill Creek grange at Watkins. Other officers elected follow: Guy Robinson, overseer; Mrs. James Coe, lecturer; Samuel Robertson, chaplain; Elmer Barker, secretary; R. Huey, steward; Abner Hurd, assistant steward; Dorothy Hurd, lady assistant steward; William Converse, gatekeeper; John Bouic, treasurer; Mrs. May Skidmore, Ceres; Mrs. Blanch Kinken, Pomona; Miss Bessie Thompson, Flora. The fifth degree was conferred on a class of candidates. The new officers will be installed in January at the Milford Center grange hall.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY PLANNED BY GRANGE

A Hallowe'en party in two weeks was arranged at a meeting of United grange Thursday night. Miss Georgia Kramer, lecturer, and Omer Kindsfiter were named to take charge of games, stunts and contests for the party and Mrs. Stella Trout was named refreshments chairman.

Elmer Deans, overseer, was in charge of the meeting. A short program followed a business session in which it was announced that beginning with the next meeting the grange will convene at 8 p. m. throughout the winter months. Next Thursday night the grange will furnish a program for Canton grange at Bowersville, with Miss Kramer in charge.

—AMERICA AND THE LEAGUE—

Wilson's Dream Comes True—In Part

A SECTION OF THE LEAGUE PALACE AS SEEN BY MOONLIGHT
Some may see in these new quarters a symbol of new League vigor.

An American statesman, Woodrow Wilson, conceived the League of Nations 20 years ago as an instrument for world peace. Now, in the face of a world crisis, American statesmen have approved the League's stand against Japan's invasion of China. Yet this is not the first time the United States and the League have gone along together. Here is the first of a series of three articles giving an account of their relationship.

BY CHARLES NORMAN
Associated Press Writer

THE $10,000,000 palace of the League of Nations on the slopes overlooking Lake Leman near Geneva, Switzerland, is the dream in stone of an American president; and American money ($2,000,000, contributed by John D. Rockefeller Jr.) went into the construction of its magnificent library.

For centuries men had dreamed of an international league to keep the peace of the world. There had been holy leagues, leagues for war and leagues for the promotion of trade. But the idea of a league against war remained an unfulfilled hope.

Born Of Bloody War

It could not have been otherwise in ages when despotic power was in the hands of a few monarchs. The American and French Revolutions unleashed forces that made possible a concert of peoples, but not until after the bloodiest war in history did it take tangible form.

It was President Woodrow Wilson's insistence that made the Covenant of the League of Nations an integral part of the peace treaties that followed the World war. At the councils of the Allies he personified the spirit of idealism that had taken the United States into the war. More realistic was Wilson's secretary of state, Robert Lansing, who declared: "War will follow the treaties as surely as night follows day."

The Solemn Covenant

War has followed, but in 1919 few foresaw it. In these solemn words of the Covenant's preamble the nations of the world looked to the future:

"The High Contracting Parties,

In order to promote international cooperation and to achieve international peace and security

By the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war,

By the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations,

By the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as the actual rule of conduct among governments,

And by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another,

Agree to this Covenant of the League of Nations."

There followed 26 articles providing for membership, representation, arbitration of disputes, guarantees against external aggression, reduction of armaments, mandates over "backward territories and races," international cooperation and the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice.

Two Stated Aims

The League has two stated aims:

1. To preserve peace and to seek a settlement of international disputes.

2. To organize in the most varied spheres the cooperation of peoples with a view to the moral and material welfare of humanity.

The League has done a tremendous amount of spade work in the humanitarian and allied economic fields, holding international conferences on finance and transit, health, armaments, intellectual cooperation the white slave traffic and the illicit opium trade. In many of these, and in the work of the International Labor Organization, a League subsidiary, the United States has taken an active part, paying its own way.

The League has a representative assembly which meets once a year; a permanent council meeting every third month, and a permanent secretariat.

Members Put Up Gold

Members of the League pay an annual contribution in gold francs; Great Britain, for 1937, paid 2,490,531 gold francs. The Dominions added to this total. France paid 1,844,938 gold francs. Afghanistan paid only 23,060 gold francs.

The franc has a current exchange value of 32.67 cents, being based on the Swiss gold franc before devaluation.

It is in the international political arena that the League's works have been scrutinized most closely, applauded most and condemned most severely. Its detractors early charged it was a tool for the maintenance of the status quo in Europe after the World war.

Its apologists, first reading the roll of its good deeds, shake heads over the fact that the world's leading power, the United States, has chosen to remain aloof.

Marriage Meddlers
BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Leaves Car So Madge and Veritzen Can Talk.

DICKY GRINNED sardonically as I outlined my plan for inducing Philip Veritzen to come out to the car to see me, thus avoiding the chance of my recognition by the hotel elevator man as the woman who had come to see Mary the day before.

"That's a sure-fire ruse, Mrs. Machiavelli," he said. "Chivalrous Phil will come a-running if he thinks a beauteous lady has injured a knee or a foot, or any other portion of her anatomy. Be sure you look properly pale, wasted and suffering when I return with the great producer in tow."

"Get along with you," I told him, laughing, and he departed after sweeping his hat from his head in an exaggerated gesture of adieu, replacing it at a rakish angle.

I had hard work to keep my face straight when he returned with Philip Veritzen beside him, for the elder man's face held an exaggerated expression of solicitude and anxiety which would have been appropriate if he had been hastily summoned to the bedside of a dear friend seriously wounded in an accident.

"My dear child!" he exclaimed as he came up to the side of the car and clasped the hand I held out for him. "I am distressed. Are you sure you are fit for this journey? You know," turning to Dicky, "the hospital is but a little way from here. Don't you think we ought to go over there for an examination at least, if not a stay? Those country doctors on your way—"

"One of the best in the state is within easy distance of the estate," I said, for I could see that Dicky was choked with repressed laughter and could not have spoken a word without betraying himself.

"But I am afraid you have misunderstood. I did not have a serious accident, nothing to require the services of a physician. I merely twisted my foot a bit, that's all. Now, I have other pressing duties to perform and I will be pressing on right in a day or two, if you will wait with me a few minutes, Mr. Veritzen, while I telephone my chauffeur to meet me here. I really feel a bit [illegible] today when I [illegible] disability does not deserve it."

"Any sprain of a muscle deserves attention—and anxiety," he said sententiously. "But, of course, I must not delay your journey longer than necessary. Did I understand you to say you would like to see Mary?" He turned to Dicky with an ingratiating smile. I suspected a ruse to get Dicky to leave us.

"I always like to see my beloved niece," he said. "Is she anywhere around?"

"She and Noel were just coming down to the breakfast table when I left," Mr. Veritzen replied, and I immediately uttered the conventional protest.

"Oh," I said, "surely Dicky didn't interrupt your breakfast!"

"Indeed, no," he said "I had finished before I received his message from the lobby."

"I'll find Mary in the dining room, then?" Dicky asked.

"Yes. Won't you have some breakfast with them?"

"We breakfasted heartily just before we left," Dicky said convincingly. "But I may have a spot of coffee with them while we talk. Shall I have a cup sent to you?" He spoke solicitously, but I caught the signaling gleam of merriment in his eyes.

"No, no," I said hurriedly. "I couldn't touch a thing."

"So be it," Dicky returned. "And if you change your mind, do let Mr. Veritzen know. He may [illegible] you some."
